BAN 'MOTORING AS USUAL' ON EAST COAST

War Agencies Act Following Action to Ration Gasoline Supply.

SHARP PROTEST HEARD

Tourists Entering Restricted Areas Will Also Be Issued Cards.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Petroleum Coordinator Ickes declared today there was "no justification for anticipating eastern motorists would be limited to as little as 2½ to 5 gallons of gasoline a week.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Heads of five top-ranking war agencies told motorists flatly today that the government no longer would risk lives of American seamen "so someone will have gasoline to go to a bridge party or a ball game."

Following swiftly on yesterday's announcement that gasoline rationing would begin May 15 in 17 eastern states and the district of Columbia, the joint statement declared "motoring-as-usual is out" in that area, possibly for the duration of the war.

Semi-official estimates of the probable ration allowances ranged from 2½ to 5 gallons a week to 25 gallons a month.

Announcement of the plan brought a sharp protest from William A. Thibodeau, general manager of the automobile legal association. He telegraphed Price Administrator Leon Henderson from Boston that the proposed limitation was "wholly out of proportion with the hardships which are imposed on other sections of the country."

He asked why Canada "apparently is able to receive more shipments of gasoline for motorists from the United States than we in the coastal states," and said:

"While we do not expect that a 'business as usual' policy can be followed in times such as these, we do expect any necessary restrictions to be imposed by a fair and impartial manner."

Collaborating with Henderson in the strongly-worded summary of policy were Donald M. Nelson, WPB chairman, Petroleum Coordinator Ickes, Chairman Emory S. Land of the maritime commission, and Defense Transportation Director Joseph B. Eastman.

"Already hundreds of men have lost their lives at sea trying to bring in the oil needed for war," their statement said. "No patriotic American can or will ask men to risk their lives to preserve motoring-as-usual."

The "meal-ticket" ration system

REACH ACCORD

U. S., Peru Agree to All-Out Wartime Collaboration.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — The state department today announced that the United States and Peru have concluded a four-point agreement for all-out wartime collaboration.

The agreement culminated discussions between Peru's minister of finance and commerce, David Dasso, and American officials and was concluded with an exchange of notes between Dasso and Secretary of State Hull.

Under its terms the resources of Peru are completely mobilized for the production of strategic materials essential for the security of the hemisphere.

Second Send-Off Draws Another Crowd

There were tears and smiles in the big crowd again this morning as Mansfield made it two successful send-off parties in two days for the inductees. These pictures, taken in front of the Richland Trust building, show a part of the throng that came downtown early to watch four buses leave with prospective soldiers. At the uper left, expressions of both sorrow and pride can be seen on the faces of the girls as they watch the boys file into the buses. At the right, two former News-Journal reporters, Robert Flohr, above, and Fred Ackerman, wave to the crowd from the door of the bus. They left with the contingent for induction. The lower photo shows a general view of the huge crowd that filled Main street around the buses as they loaded.

THOUSANDS AT 2ND SEND-OFF FOR DRAFTEES

Another Big Crowd on Hand as Buses Take New Group To Army Centers.

3RD PARTY TOMORROW

City Called Upon To Give Cheer to Contingent at Courthouse at 7:30.

Mansfield proved today that the increasing frequency of send-off parties for soldiers can't dampen the city's enthusiasm for the boys who are giving up their jobs at home to defend their country.

For the second consecutive morning a throng estimated at close to 5,000 persons crowded into the downtown section to cheer the prospective soldiers as they rode away in four buses to an army induction station. The contingent was from the Board 2 district in Mansfield and Madison township.

At the same time tomorrow morning—7:30 p. m.—Mansfield and Richland county will have another chance to give a group of inductees a rousing send-off.

The group scheduled to leave Friday morning will be from the Board 3 area which includes all the county's rural districts and Shelby. The Bellville school band will play for the party in front of the courthouse and on the east side of Central park.

Buses to transport the inductees will be lined up near the courthouse where Board 3 has its headquarters. Police will block off traffic at the east side of the park, providing plenty of room for thousands of persons to gather to see the boys leave.

This morning's party was at the west side of the park where the relatives, friends, and other well-wishers of the inductees crowded into the street in such great numbers that it was difficult to get the buses started down South Main street.

The Madison high school band, chosen appropriately because many of the inductees were from the township, played a concert of snappy music for near a half hour before the buses left promptly at 8 a. m.

Parents, sisters and brothers, wives, and friends of the boys were there to shake their hands and wish them well. The crowd cheered and waved as long as the buses were in sight.

It was a scene that has been repeated often and probably will be many times again before victory comes, but it was new today for the ones close to the soldiers

Seize Hundreds Of Free French On Ocean Isle

Lavalists Spur Drive Interpreted as Hint Japs Will Get Area; Vichy Denies German Sailors Are Arriving In French Ports.

BULLETIN

VICHY — (INS) — Widespread speculation raged throughout France today in the wake of an officially-inspired report that a British fleet had passed through the Straits of Gibraltar into the Mediterranean. The fleet was said to be composed of two battleships, one a new 35,000-ton monster, and six destroyers. French newspapers reported the ships in the vicinity of Toulon.

(By Associated Press)

A virtual reign of terror on the key French island of Madagascar, with the arrest of hundreds of De Gaullists, was reported today amid quickening speculation that France's new pro-German Premier Pierre Laval may be planning to turn the island over to Japan.

The world's fourth largest island, Madagascar lies off the east coast of Africa athwart vital Allied lines of communication with India. "Madagascar is not being defended against Japanese infiltration, and it cannot be defended against Japanese invasion," said dispatches reaching London.

France's new role in the war, particularly her collaboration with the Axis, was sharply emphasized today by a series of developments:

1. The Union of South Africa, a part of the British empire which would probably be given the task of dealing with Madagascar, broke off relations with Vichy.

It is about 800 miles from Durban, South Africa, to Madagascar.

2. In London, a British spokesman said "it is now reported that 50,000 tons of French shipping have been taken over by Japan."

3. High-ranking United States diplomats, it was disclosed, have been newly transferred to Brazzaville, in Free French West Africa, and to Nigeria and Liberia in an evident move to strengthen the U. S. diplomatic front in Africa.

Observers said these stations are usually assigned to newcomers.

4. In Vichy, Premier Laval himself received the Japanese ambassador-designate, Takonobu Mitani.

5. The Vichy government went to the length of issuing an official denial of Moscow radio reports that German sailors were arriving at the French Mediterranean naval base of Toulon and that French warships were being turned over to Germany.

The statement also denied reports "of a fight between French and German sailors."

Advices reaching London said the mass arrests of Gen. Charles De Gaulle's Free French followers on Madagascar, including members of the island administration, were carried out on orders from Laval.

Agents of the Vichy regime were said to be rounding up all

SEEK TO SPEED UP ENLISTMENTS

Army and Navy Relax Rulings To Give 'Break' To Young Volunteers.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — In simultaneous moves to spur enlistments the army and navy today announced relaxing of previous rulings.

Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson announced that 18 and 19-year-old volunteers for the army hereafter may choose the combat branch in which they wish to serve. Youths 18 and 19 are exempt from the draft.

The navy announced that high school graduates may qualify to become aviation officers with the rank of ensign in the naval reserve or second lieutenant in the marine corps reserve.

Stimson told a press conference the plan to allow the young men to select their service was "putting a premium on early enlistment."

Stimson explained that heretofore all enlistments in the army had been made for the army at

$18,576 Arrives To Pay County's Defense Expenses

Richland county had a check today for $18,576 in state money to help finance the civilian defense program, but Ray Hout, county civilian defense chairman, was still awaiting instructions from Columbus as to how the money will be divided among the county subdivisions.

Conferring with county commissioners this morning after receiving the check, County Auditor Normal L. Wolfe was asked to hold it until more information is forthcoming from the Ohio defense council.

Hout indicated that he would call a meeting of the 37-member county defense council to provide for allocation of the funds should the state leave the distribution to the county.

The check received today by the county represented a share of the $2,000,000 which was transferred Monday from a surplus relief fund to a special state civilian defense fund at the request of Gov. John W. Bricker.

Speed Programs to Register Manpower, Sugar Consumers

Mansfield and Richland county prepared today with the rest of the nation for two registrations within a week, one of manpower for war production and the other of trade users of sugar.

The fourth inventory of manpower to include men from 45 to 65 will get underway at noon Saturday at 22 registration posts throughout the city and county. About 7,500 men, virtually all of them beyond the age at which they are likely to be called for military service, are expected to register in the county Saturday and Sunday afternoons and all day Monday.

Nearly 500 retailers, wholesalers, institutions, and industrial users will sign up under the sugar rationing program next Tuesday and Wednesday at high schools in the city and county.

Close to 70,000 civilian sugar users will register from May 4 through May 7 at city and county elementary schools and possibly during the entire week of May 4 in Mansfield.

The government plans to draw heavily on the manpower registered next week-end for workers in war industries to replace younger men who are better equipped for the active life of a soldier.

Men who reached their 45th birthday on or before Feb. 16, 1942, and will not be 65 before April 27, will be required to register.

Plans for the registration of trade users of sugar in the county were mapped for county school superintendents yesterday afternoon at the courthouse. At the same time Boyd Robinson, head of the county schools, distributed instruction

RECEIPTS FALL

Easter Shopping Reflects Slump in Sales Tax.

With the Easter shopping season over, retail sales tax receipts in Richland county and throughout the state took a decided slump during the second week of April, dropping $335,000 behind the corresponding week last year.

Richland county collections for the week amounted to $10,675, about $4,000 below receipts for the same week last year. The county's collections to date now amount to $145,454 as against $175,540 to the same date last year.

Tax collected on wearing apparel sales fell below the corresponding week of 1941 for the first time this year, but the automotive classification continued to show the greatest loss. Collections on food and building supplies were higher than last year.

Memberships In Civic Music Group Offered to Newcomers

Mansfield Civic Music association campaign workers rallied their forces today for the last half of the membership drive that will bring Mansfield the finest available concert talent next season.

"Everybody who is interested in music and who wants to help worthwhile civic projects is invited to become an association member," Mrs. D. O. Meese, campaign chairman, told campaign leaders and workers at their first report meeting last night.

Mrs. Meese pointed out that "from now on the field is open and preference in registration will be given memberships in the order in which they are received at headquarters." Previously the campaign was devoted to membership renewals.

Concerts To Be Given At John Simpson

Negotiations were completed with Superintendent W. L. Miller today for the use of John Simpson Junior high school auditorium for the Civic Music concerts next season. The Civic Music association made the change from Mansfield Senior auditorium, where the concerts have been held in the past, to provide a more central location in view of transportation problems.

Workers were supplied with additional names, and they were also instructed that persons wish-

SEEKS TRANSFER OF AIR STATION

Harrington Takes Steps To Bring Hayesville Equipment To City's Airport.

Formal application for the transfer of the government's emergency landing field at Hayesville to the Mansfield municipal airport has been made by James R. Harrington, airport manager.

Harrington announced today that he had petitioned the Civil Aeronautics Authority at Chicago to have the Hayesville station, which is used to gather aviation flight data, moved to Mansfield and that he expected an answer within the next week or 10 days.

Establishment of the emergency landing field here would, according to Harrington, give the municipal airport "a great boost" and would supply it with $30,000 worth of aeronautical

Runaway Girl, 13, Found Riding on Horse by Farmer

A 13-year-old girl who disappeared from the Hedges school Tuesday afternoon was back in Mansfield today after riding a horse and walking through southern Richland and Ashland counties for a day and night.

Tearfully, the girl told Ralph Carroll, county juvenile officer, today how she started to hitchhike to Zanesville where she has relatives and finally "borrowed" an old horse from a field in Ashland county to help her along when she couldn't get rides in cars.

Notified of the girls whereabouts last night by an Ashland county farmer who saw her along the road, Deputy Sheriff C. C. Gongwer, returned the child here about 3 a. m. today. She is held in the county detention home pending hearing of her case in juvenile court.

The girl told officers she spent Tuesday night at a farm home near Loudonville and then acquired the horse and two dogs yesterday as she traveled through the county, in the opposite direction from Zanesville. The child's step-father reported her disappearance.

AGAIN HEADS AP

M'Lean Elected By Directors at Annual Meeting.

NEW YORK — (AP) — Robert McLean of the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin began his fifth term as president of the Associated Press today. Two new vice presidents also assumed office.

Besides re-electing McLean, the AP board of directors yesterday named as first and second vice presidents, respectively, Houston Harte of the San Angelo (Texas) Standard and Arthur Hayes Sulzberger of the New York Times.

Harte succeeded E. Lansing Ray of the St. Louis Globe Democrat. Sulzberger took the place of Stuart H. Perry of the Adrian (Mich.) Telegram.

The directors, whose election of officers followed the cooperative newsgathering organization's 42d annual meeting, re-elected Kent Cooper, AP general manager, secretary; Lloyd Stratton, assistant general manager, assistant secretary; L. F. Curtis, treasurer, and Alan J. Gould, executive assistant, as assistant treasurer.

House of Commons To Argue On Fuel Rationing Plan.

LONDON —(AP)— An official spokesman said today the house of commons would debate the issue of fuel rationing before any order limiting supplies would be enforced by the government.

This statement followed animated opposition to coal, gas and electricity rationing which developed immediately after the government had announced a plan on Tuesday.

BRACED: Nazis Prepare for Invasion of Western Europe

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—Following close upon yesterday morning's commando raid at Boulogne, dispatches from Stockholm, reported today the German expectancy of and preparations for Allied invasion in western Europe had considerably increased.

British sources here counseled correspondents to "remember Von Rundstedt." Field Marshal General Karl Rudolf Gerd von Rundstedt, whose name generally is associated with the German army's offensive operations, was reported a week ago to have moved into France.

Other reports were that Von Rundstedt had gone there to strengthen defenses of that German-dominated country against invasion but current advices were that he went there with parachute troops.

Despite the German offensive suggestion in this latest report on the game of nerves—who's going to invade whom and where?—it appeared that the Germans were more apprehensive than the British.

In contrast to Britain, where responsible leaders have said they expect air-borne invasion on a "diversionary scale" sometime, and expect to repel it, Stockholm dispatches said the Germans were taking hasty precautions along their entire western "front"—from northernmost Norway to France.

The Berlin correspondent of the Stockholm Dagens Nyheter was permitted to write for his newspaper that "certain optimists are convinced the British will come by May 1." The British regard this as a feeler so obvious that anxiety must have dictated it.

The Dagens Nyheter writer reported that Berlin military cir-

PIQUED: Japs Want U. S. Army And Navy to Reveal Raid Data

(By United Press)

Tokyo radio, apparently unable to restrain its curiosity longer, today indirectly requested information from the United States Army and Navy concerning the Allied air raid on Japan last Saturday.

In a broadcast recorded by the United Press listening post at San Francisco, Tokyo radio said:

"The American papers are talking big, but not a whisper from the army or navy. We will be very interested in knowing just how many planes came from and escaped to their bases. We will be very interested in knowing their claims of damages, which according to them no doubt will be great."

Japanese planes, vainly seeking the United States bombing planes they believe are based in China, raided possible airdrome sites in Kiangsi and Chekiang provinces, below Shanghai, for the third straight day yesterday, Chinese dispatches said.

Yushan, in eastern Kiangsi, was raided for the third time, and Chuchow, in western Chekiang, for the second time.

Chinese dispatches reported that Chinese guns shot down two Japanese planes which raided Kweilin, 250 miles northwest of Canton in Kwangsi province, yesterday afternoon. Both burned when they hit the ground, the dispatches said, but the crews escaped.

Tokyo, in its first report of the raids on Kiangsi and Chekiang, spoke of great fires burning and at the end confessed: "It was pointed out that during sympathizers of the Free French movement on the island.

SEIZE HUNDREDS OF FREE FRENCH ON MADAGASCAR

In Washington, informed sources again suggested the possibility of a complete diplomatic rupture between the United States and France.

These sources pointed out that the United States' firm policy toward the Laval collaborationist regime has won such support in French circles that five members of the Vichy embassy and consular staff in Washington have already resigned in protest against Laval's pro-German machinations.

In the Philippines, a Tokyo broadcast reported that between 500 and 600 American-Filipino troops were still holding out in the jungles of Mount Baloy, the highest peak on Panay island, while other last-ditch Allied defenders continued to fight on Timor island in the Dutch East Indies.

A Tokyo broadcast said except for holdout fighters on Mt. Baloy, Japanese troops had broken all resistance on Panay island, in the central Philippines.

An Allied communique said briefly:

"Our forces are in contact with the enemy in southern Panay island."

Mt. Baloy is in the center of the island.

The Tokyo radio also asserted that Japanese troops on Bataan peninsula, where Lieut.-Gen. Jonathan Wainwright's exhausted armies surrendered on April 9, had captured 53,400 prisoners including 9,533 Americans between April 3 and 20.

The broadcast said the defenders had left 5,000 dead on the Bataan battlefield during that period.

RAF Hits Rhineland And Le Havre Docks

(By Associated Press)

British RAF warplanes celebrated the feast day of St. George, the patron saint of England, with a heavy assault on the German Rhineland and the docks, at Le Havre before dawn today.

During the night, big guns on the English channel coast also boomed across Dover Strait and continued firing for about 30 minutes.

The aerial thrusts against Adolf Hitler's Rhineland war foundries and Le Havre capped yesterday's spectacular raid by British commandos who landed on the Nazi-occupied French "invasion coast" near Boulogne, cut German communications and probed enemy fortifications for two hours.

The Nazi high command acknowledged "some casualties" and material damage in western Germany, but declared that German night raiders struck back with an attack on an English south coast munitions factory which caused "violent explosions."

The Germans said five RAF bombers were shot down. The British said four planes were missing.

On the Russian war front, Soviet dispatches reported that the German armies in the Ukraine, heavily battered in recent weeks, had abandoned their counter-attacks and changed tactics to a defense of fortified positions.

The significance in this lay in well-informed military predictions that Hitler's long-hearlded offensive would strike its heaviest blows on the southern flank, in a drive toward the oil-rich Caucasus. Now, according to the Russians, the Germans' preliminary "feeler" thrusts have been crushed and the Nazis forced back on the defensive.

Hitler's field headquarters reported "successful" German offensive operations on the northern (Leningrad) and central fronts, and asserted that Finnish troops in Karelia, north of Leningrad, had beaten off 150 Red army attacks in 10 days with a toll of 14,000 Russians killed.

On the North African battlefront, the cautiously sparring British and Axis armies limited their actviities to patrol clashes.

SON HURT IN BATAAN ACTION

Ashland Mother Learns Youth Was Slightly Wounded.

ASHLAND—Word has been received that Craig Grover, 22, believed to be the only Ashlander who fought in the Bataan campaign, had been slightly wounded on April 16 and was convalescing.

The message was received by his mother, Mrs. C. B. Carlin, who was permitted to send a five-word message to him. Mrs. Carlin received word of her son's condition through the office of the adjutant-general at Washington, D. C.

Grover enlisted in the service in February, 1941, and has been on duty with an aircraft warning division of the signal corps. He was sent to the Philippines last September. The last word received from him was in a letter written Dec. 1, 1941.

equipment needed to give Mansfield a "modern" airport.

Harrington stated that if the emergency field were moved here that the Mansfield port would be given the use of two-way radio, obstruction lighting facilities, the latest and most complete flight charts and an important place in the government's organization for the collection of flight information.

The airport manager said that the transfer of the Hayesville equipment to Mansfield would not only bring in six new families but would also give the city listing on governmental air flight charts and maps which go all over the country.

He added that the Civil Aeronautics Authority may grant the transfer pending co-operation in Mansfield for the construction of a radio building to house the radio equipment. This would cost the City of Mansfield between $1,000 and $2,000, he estimated.

large, with no assurance given as to assignment to a particular branch. That policy continues for selectees.

Stimson also disclosed that physicians will be recruited locally to expedite the obtaining of officers for the army medical corps.

Another announcement said that enlisted men of the National Guard, regular army reserve, and enlisted reserve corps, who have not been recalled to active duty because of dependents, now may apply for admission to officer candidate schools, if they have had at least three months of active duty since Sept. 1, 1940, and are otherwise qualified.

The navy for the first time has offered young men with only a secondary education the opportunity to apply for flight training leading to commissioned officer status. Recruiting will begin Monday and candidates between 18 and 27 who have graduated from high school may apply.

Candidates will be sent to one of the new aviation induction centers at the universities of Iowa, Georgia, North Carolina, and St. Mary's college, Calif., for the three months "toughening" course. After this will come regular flight training.

Throughout the entire training period candidates will be paid in accordance with their rating. Aviation cadets receive $75 a month plus subsistence and uniforms. Ensigns and marine second lieutenants will receive $205 a month, plus allowances.

DEVELOPS SUBSTITUTE

U. S. Going to Seed--to Provide Food for Allies

Where once the United States consumed all its own production of seed and 5,000,000 pounds from Europe in addition, now the situation has been reversed; the United States is furnishing seed to provide the food, not only for itself, but for its Allies as well. Approximately 290,000 acres, principally in California and Washington, have been planted for seed for 50 different crops. Already American growers are supplying all the seeds used in the British Isles. A field of turnips in full bloom is shown here, pictured on the Skagit Flats of the state of Washington.

these attacks not a single enemy airplane could be detected at these air bases."

A German dispatch from Tokyo indicated that Japan would be unusually watchful for hostile planes Saturday.

It said that the mikado, dressed as a field marshal, would attend celebrations at the Yasukuni shrine in Tokyo for the deification of 5,017 Japanese troops killed in China and Malaya. More than 30,000 members of the soldiers' families will be present, it added.

According to the dispatch, the deification ceremonies started today and will last until Monday.

Chinese Push Japs Back Eight Miles

BULLETIN

NEW DELHI —(INS)— Japanese troops today launched fresh counter-attacks on Chinese forces holding Yenangyuang on the Irrawaddy river in Burma.

CHUNGKING —(U.P.)— Official dispatches reported today that Chinese troops have driven the Japanese back eight miles in western Burma's oil fields, but acknowledged Japanese capture of Pyinmana and a 40-mile enemy advance on the eastern front.

A Chungking military spokesman, reporting a seven-mile Japanese advance along the central Burma railway during the past week, said the enemy had intensified attacks on new Chinese positions north of Pyinmana, only 150 miles below Mandalay.

Sixty-five miles to the east of Pyinmana, the Japanese were menacing Chinese positions near Loikaw in the southern Shan states.

The spokesman said the situation at Loikaw was "obscure" and that he had no official information whether the Chinese still held the city.

Allies Continue Fighting On Timor

GENERAL MARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia — (U.P.)— Intrepid Netherlands and Australian troops are fighting still on Timor island, keeping a foothold 300 miles off the northwest Australian coast for the United Nations offensive which is to throw the Japanese out of the southwest Pacific, Gen. Douglas MacArthur revealed today.

For two months, the Dutch-Australian troops have been resisting in the interior of the Portuguese-Netherlands island on which the Japanese have established, at Koepang, one of their two most important bases in the Australian defense zone.

They had been cut off from al lcontact with the Netherlands East Indies and Australia for weeks, and had only the steadily intensifying raids of United States and Australian planes on the island to tell them that their fight was not in vain.

Japan announced its landing on Timor Feb. 20. Australian and Dutch forces had penetrated the Portuguese part of the island previously in expectation of the Japanese attack. The first phases of their fight against overwhelming odds have been reported, but for weeks there had been no word of them.

Memberships In Civic Music Group Offered to Newcomers

ing to join the association may bring their membership dues directly to headquarters instead of waiting for a worker to call.

Campaign headquarters in the Ohio Fuel Gas company at 68 Park avenue west will be open Friday and Saturday both day and evening to accommodate prospective members as well as campaign workers. The deadline for membership remains at 8 p. m. Saturday and after that time no memberships will be available and single admissions for the concerts cannot be purchased at the door.

Albert Arnold, president of the association, has called a meeting of the executive committee and entire campaign organization for 7:15 p. m. today at campaign headquarters to further instruct the workers in their responsibilities.

The association's talent committee has made a preliminary count of the talent ballots submitted by subscribers thus far and the choice will be made Saturday night after the membership is complete.

Among the artists under consideration for the series are: ensembles; the New Friends of Music orchestra, the Don Cossack male chorus, and the Salzedo concert ensemble; baritones, Thomas L. Thomas, Conrad Thibault, and Paul Robeson; tenor, Jan Peerce; sopranos, Vivian della Chiesa, Licia Albanese, Metropolitan Opera sensation of this season, and Margit Bokor, famous Hungarian soprano; violinists, Joseph Szigeti, the young American Roland Gundry, and Efrem Zimbalist; pianists Josef Lhevinne, Arthur Rubenstein, and Claudio Arrau, and Josef and Rosina Lhevinne in duo-piano recital; the Southernaires, favorite male quartet of radio and concert; and Ruth Draper in her one-woman theater presentation. Final choice for the series will be announced in Sunday's News-Journal.

Japs Warned of U. S. Counter Attack

TOKYO — (By Official Japanese Wireless) —(INS)— The Japanese radio today quoted parts of a speech by Premier Hideki Tojo in which he warned that the Japanese must always be prepared "because the United States is constantly seeking an opportunity to counter-attack."

Speaking before the Japanese economic federation, the premier added that "the Axis soon will deal a knockout blow to the old world order."

Tojo said Japan would adhere to its neutrality pact with Russia.

BUT FIRST LET'S LOOK AT THE FACTS about Gas Heating
With a few exceptions, it is true that the Gas Division of the War Production Board prohibited gas companies from accepting new customers for major heating of homes or other buildings after February 28, 1942. The reason given was to conserve gas for its greatly expanded use by war industries.
We were tempted to file a formal protest, because last summer we had provided to deliver adequate gas to furnish both domestic customers and war industries for the winter season. Considering the matter, we decided to discuss it first with the responsible authorities in Washington.
Explaining our situation, we were informed that this company had done one of the best jobs in the country of providing for war industries as well as domestic customers. Because of this position, we were asked to serve expanded and new war industries coming into our own area rather than accept additional customers for gas heating. This we are doing now as a part in the effort for Victory.
We have received no order — and we certainly do not expect one — to the effect that present users of gas for heating will be forced to use other fuels. You will find that gas which served so well in peacetime continues to be the ideal fuel — DOING DOUBLE DUTY — on the home front and in war industries.

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, APRIL 23, 1942.

Another thing that can be postponed "for the duration" is installing more parking meters.

Emptying one shaving cream tube before getting another is likely to prove quite a strain on forgetful folks.

There's some talk in Washington about dropping "superfluous press agents"—but why confine the elimination of superfluity to press agents?

None Too Old To Help Win War

STARTING Saturday noon and continuing through Monday, men between the ages of 45 and 65 will be registered by Uncle Sam as a part of his national manpower—for such work as each is qualified and able to do.

It is not intended, except in the event of a not yet foreseen emergency, to call upon these older men for actual military service, but it is expected, and confidently believed, that each of them will be ready and anxious to perform any occupational or civilian duties that may be deemed necessary to the war effort.

Registration of men from age 20 to age 65 should not be construed as intention to deprive younger or older men of opportunity to be of service to their country, as many boys under 20 and men over 65 will find things to do, during coming weeks and months, which will fit into the war program and become a valuable part thereof.

Nor does the fact that women are not to be immediately registered mean that they will not be called upon for much in the way of voluntary service, not only in industrial production to meet war needs, but for numerous civilian tasks which will require time, effort and sacrifices.

In addition to the voluntary, uncompensated work that will be asked of many people, there will also be the opportunity to economize and save to meet regular payments on purchases of War Bonds and Stamps, which every man, woman and child will be expected to do, to the extent of ability.

More are realizing—but some do not yet understand—that no effort will be too great to be justified by the fact that it will contribute to winning the war for survival and liberation.

Admission Reveals War Danger

A DANGER that should be recognized by those who might inadvertently allow sympathy to warp judgment was recently revealed in Detroit, where a German-born naturalized citizen admitted that he had aided a Nazi air pilot who escaped from a Canadian concentration camp.

"Although I have become an American citizen," the man explained, "my blood is German and I am not sorry for what I have done. I would do it again . . . I don't think I've done anything so terrible."

Not so terrible? Then what would be considered "terrible" by this naturalized citizen who did what was within his power to help an escaped war prisoner get back to Germany—where he could again participate in destructive air raids and imperil the lives of American soldiers!

Police also found that this naturalized citizen is a member of the German bund in Detroit and that his restaurant has been a bund meeting place.

It is acts such as this, and an attitude such as was expressed, that makes constant FBI and police surveillance so necessary in time of war. Axis-controlled countries have prompter ways of dealing with such cases than have yet been adopted here—fortunately for the Detroit traitor.

Know Your Congressman's Name

SOME surprise has been expressed over a recent revelation, with a poll as its basis, that fully one half of the voters in the United States do not know the name of the congressman that represents their district.

This may not be important. It may be that a "representative" government functions just as well, even if half the people do not know who represents them, but the idea of voters electing a man to such a responsible position and then forgetting about him does seem odd.

If, as may happen, there is anyone in this area who doesn't know the name of the congressman from the Seventeenth district, of which Richland county is a part, it is not intended to keep the information secret.

The name is J. Harry McGregor. His home is in West Lafayette, Coshocton county, and mail will reach him if addressed to House Office Building, Washington, D. C.

Ohio's two senators are Robert A. Taft, of Cincinnati, and Harold H. Burton, of Cleveland. Address them "Senate Office Building, Washington, D. C."

Dr. Carrel's Changed Role

MENTION of Dr. Alexis Carrel as a possible member of Pierre Laval's new French cabinet reminds Americans of a great man who seems to have passed from the American scene. Carrel was long identified with the Rockefeller Institute in New York City. He made many remarkable discoveries in surgery, particularly the possibility of keeping bits of flesh alive and growing indefinitely in a chemical solution. He and Charles Lindbergh worked together on various experiments several years ago at Carrel's retreat on an island in the English channel.

If Carrel, at the age of 69, were to enter public life under a politician like Laval, it would be only in order to promote public health or scientific discoveries.

Many Americans remember him for a notable book, "Man, the Unknown," which was a best-seller for a time. That book doubtless deserves to be resurrected and read and re-read, not only for its medical lore, but as a scientific prospectus for development of the human race and promotion of human knowledge.

Archibald MacLeish, poet and head of the Library of Congress, speaks truly of "the ignorant superstition that violence and lies and murder on another continent are not violence and lies and murder here."

Something has been strangely missing from the Washington news for a couple of weeks and it turns out to be the absence of a rumor that Secretary Perkins is soon to resign.

May has been proclaimed as "politeness month" in Germany, possibly in deference to the Japs, who use politeness as a mask for villainy.

One annoyance being escaped this year is talk about a third party—but there's still some idea of reviving a second party.

A NEW GERM IN THE MILK PAIL

May Repeat Political Mistake

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—Too many people around President Roosevelt are seeking to repeat the same mistake which bad advisers led President Woodrow Wilson to make in 1918, when he appealed for a Democratic congress. Such maneuvers as permitting it to become known, for instance, that the White House was dead set on preventing the return to the senate of Senator C. Wayland Brooks, of Illinois.

Mr. Roosevelt should remember very clearly the results of that 1918 appeal. Rightly or wrongly, scores of Democratic members of the house and half a dozen Democratic senators blamed their defeat that year on the president.

It may be remembered that because of that surprising upset, which gave the Republicans control of the senate (by the closest possible majority) Senator Henry Cabot Lodge was able to "pack" the foreign relations committee.

It is thought by many participants and observers of that period that if the Democrats had elected just one more senator in 1918 the Versailles treaty would have been ratified, and the U. S. would have been in the League of Nations.

BUT to return to the present, the friends of the president produced the situation permitting the renomination of Senator Brooks, by an enormous majority, to be labeled a defeat for the White House.

Actually Senator Brooks, although an isolationist before Pearl Harbor, has warmly supported every war measure since, and has been trying to help the efficiency of the war effort by criticizing along with some Democratic senators who were inclined to be "interventionists" rather than "isolationists" up to December 7, what he has regarded as weak spots in the war effort.

There is no indication in any congressional district up to date of any serious threat against a sitting member because that member is supporting the war measures. Obviously support of war measures is the important thing — not what the member thought or did before Pearl Harbor.

So far as prosecution of the war is concerned, it makes little difference what any particular senator or member of the house thought, spoke, or how he voted prior to the war declaration. It just so happens that this writer has believed, and written ever since the war broke out in 1939, that the United States would never see Hitler triumphant—that we would get into the war if and when it became obviously necessary to prevent that.

The writer repeatedly pointed out that this was President Roosevelt's position, and that he was gradually leading us into war. Most of the isolationists agreed that this WAS Roosevelt's position, but they deplored it. Some of them told the writer we would have a terrible condition in this country if and when F. D. R. succeeded.

PEARL HARBOR changed all that. People who had been isolationists, and those who really favored Germany, changed overnight. The country is amazingly united so far as the war effort is concerned, many as may be the problems on self-interest and opinion.

So it would seem very short sighted to make a mountain out of a molehill in a state or district election. It would merit an ugly adjective if the attempt were made to elect men desired for OTHER reasons on the pretext of patriotism.

Man About Manhattan

Table Talk

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—He was in kilt, and he wore the red hackle, and when he danced every eye in the Rainbow room was upon him. I took him to be a Scot, and since it isn't often you see one of those lads who were known in the last war as "those Ladies From Hell," I went over to his table and introduced myself.

"I saw you in kilts and I thought I'd like to talk to you a few moments," I told him.

"If you don't mind," he said, "it's 'kilt'—not kilts."

It turned out he wasn't a Scot at all. He was a Canadian. He was Lieutenant Douglas H. Fitzgerald, on leave in New York for seven days. His outfit was the Black Watch regiment, the Royal Highlanders of Canada. He didn't want to talk. He seemed extremely reticent. At his table was a young lady in a red dress and a gentleman who could have been his father.

THIS was a matter of speculation all around the Rainbow room. Some argued that the young lady was his fiancee and that she was chaperoned by her father. Others had it father and son. In any case, the man and the girl broke down the lieutenant's hesitancy. They hemmed him into a corner and persuaded him to tell a few things about himself. His hesitancy was perfectly natural, I thought. He didn't know whom he was talking to. He didn't know but that something might pop in a gossip column that might later embarrass him.

He didn't want to say anything in New York that would put him on the spot in his own regiment. But it turned out very pleasantly. He had two "pips" on his shoulder. Pips are the equivalent of our bars. Two pips meant that he was a full lieutenant. He didn't know when he would get to Europe. He was very impatient to get to Europe. He was blond and young and about six feet. All he could think of was getting to Europe.

"Au revoir," I said, rising to depart.

"Au revoir," he said, "in Berlin."

LATER, after the show, I went down stairs and ran into a small display in a window that seemed entirely fitting for such an occasion. It was a first rate tagline to a conversation with a lieutenant of the Black Watch. It was simply a line of decorations mounted on a board, and beneath them was the legend:

"Insignia of an Empire in Collapse . . . taken from captive Italian prisoners. . . ." One of the insigna was in the shape of a cross, and on it were the words "Merit od Guerra." Another was brilliant gold braid in the form of a scroll. . . . This was still mounted on a square of uniform cut from the officers blouse. . . . The men who wore these insignia are either dead or confined in British prison camps. . . . But the token of their ex-glory is posted in a show window in New York.

Biddle's Crack at Martin Dies Only the First Shot of Volley

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—There was a very good reason for the hot crack of Attorney General Francis Biddle that Martin Dies is a muddling "amateur" investigator.

Biddle believes the justice department has the Texas congressional sleuth over a barrel, and the surprise crack was the opening shot of a fusillade soon to be fired.

In a long series of reports, Dies has charged that more than 1,200 Communists and fellow travellers have jobs in government agencies in Washington. Recently their names plus Dies' evidence were turned over to super sleuth J. Edgar Hoover for a further probe, before dismissing all those actually found to be Reds. The FBI investigation has now been completed and the report is in Biddle's hands.

The report declares that Dies' charges are unfounded in all but a few instances. And even most of these are borderline.

But to remove all possibility of controversy, Biddle has taken still another precaution, by appointing Undersecretary of the Interior Dempsey, Undersecretary of Commerce Taylor, and Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Gaston to go over the FBI report and make a report on the report.

Roosevelt and Wallace.

WHEN Biddle got the FBI report he showed it to the president and remarked: "I've really got Dies on the run this time."

To which the president is reported to have replied:

"You mean he had you on the run until Henry kicked him into your corner."

The president's reference was to Henry Wallace's scathing denunciation of Dies when Dies claimed 35 employes of the board of economic warfare are leftists.

Hors D'Oeuvres.

THERE is bitter personal hatred between Laval and Admiral Darlan. Some Frenchmen hope this will retard Darlan's handing over of the fleet. Probably wishful thinking. . . . In the first World war, Laval was a pacifist; he went to Switzerland to meet with other pacifists, including Russian-Mensheviks. . . . The son of a butcher, Laval became a millionaire; he has a medieval castle in France, with drawbridge and moat. . . . State department officials expect Laval's first move to be friendly toward the United States. He cannot sustain the shock of an immediate rupture of relations. . . . First token of this policy was seen in Ambassador Henry-Haye's visit to the state department. Instead of bringing a formal written note, he was instructed to convey the message orally, which is more friendly.

Congressmen Enlist.

AT PRESENT, six representatives and one senator are on active duty with the army and navy. They are:

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts, captain, U. S. Army.

Representative Lyndon Johnson of Texas, lieutenant commander, U. S. Navy.

Representative Warren Magnuson of Washington, lieutenant commander, U. S. Navy.

Representative Albert L. Vreeland of New Jersey, captain, U. S. Army.

Representative Frank C. Osmers of New Jersey, corporal, U. S. Army.

Representative Eugene Worley of Texas, lieutenant commander, U. S. Navy.

Representative Francis E. Walter of Pennsylvania, lieutenant commander, U. S. Navy.

Besides these seven, several other congressmen are itching to volunteer.

However, all members of congress are automatically eligible for deferment, and although patriotic motives are appreciated, there is another side to the question which concerns administration leaders.

When a member of the house joins up, it means that his congressional district — comprising anywhere from 200,000 to a million people—is left without representation in the government. So the president and his advisers frankly feel that a congressman best serves his country by remaining in congress. Therefore administration leaders on Capitol Hill have requested the war and navy departments to release all members of the house and senate now in the armed services, and reject further enlistments of congressmen.

Power Probe.

A POWERFUL lobby is again back on the Washington scene.

Driven out of the capital a few years ago by the blasting investigation of Justice Hugo Black, then U. S. senator from Alabama, the utility forces have quietly resumed their undercover pressure operations. Lobbying headquarters are in an office building on downtown 14th street, in the heart of the city.

Inquiries at this office elicited the explanation that the purpose of the power interests was to "facilitate cooperation with the government in the war effort." But congressional leaders tell a different story.

They claim the office is headquarters for a large and aggressive lobby now fighting every proposal to expand public power for war purposes. Furthermore the lobby has had several major successes in its undercover operations.

The defeat of a big public power expansion in Arkansas, strongly recommended by the president and the War Production Board, is laid squarely at the doorstep of the lobby.

Up in arms over the lobby's successes, congressional public power leaders are planning a counter attack. Representative Clyde Ellis, militant Arkansas leader of the house public power bloc, soon will introduce a resolution for a sweeping investigation of the power lobby. With congress now very investigation-minded; Ellis' resolution bodes no good for the power boys.

Merry-Go-Round.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT has indicated to Democratic chiefs who urged him to tour the country, that he may take a transcontinental trip this summer—if the war permits. Democratic candidates facing tough election battles are eager to have him visit their states. Also the president long has wanted to inspect several army camps and war production centers. . . . Pat di Cicco and his wife, the former Gloria Vanderbilt, are living in a Washington hotel while socialite friends try to wrangle him a commission in the army or navy.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—The capital in wartime:

Opening day of the American league baseball season was a sad occasion for Washington fans (Yankees 7, Senators goose egg), but there was one sight that was well worth the price of admission.

It was Vice-President Wallace throwing out the first ball. Mr. Wallace was a last-minute substitute for President Roosevelt, who explained that "war and work" would keep him away from the diamond for the first opening day since he has been in Washington.

GET back." Mr. Wallace shouted to the players gathered eagerly around the presidential box, like bridesmaids waiting starry-eyed to catch the bouquet.

None did. None, that is, except Buddy Hassett, a Yankee utility infielder. Hassett stood far out towards second base, absent-mindedly shifting his weight first on one foot and then the other.

The vice president let fly. Far out over the mass of hopping players the ball arched—out towards second base. And Hassett snagged it.

The face of Alex Carrasquel, Clark Griffith's Venezuelan importation, fell an inch, possibly two inches. His last feverish cry of "Peech eet to me" died on his lips. With the rest of the players, he trotted back to the field. What he and the rest had forgotten was that Mr. Wallace throws a boomerang in his spare time and has developed quite a wing.

Hassett wasn't hep to the boomerang angle either. "I figured either I'd get it or I wouldn't get it," he explained simply. "I didn't see any sense in getting caught in the middle of that mob."

HERE are a couple of items I picked up over at the treasury department press room the other day—not big enough to get on the wires but they give you an idea of the kind of little things that go on.

Item No. 1 was about a counterfeiter arrested in Mobile, Ala. The Secret Service discovered some ink stains on his trousers and found it was the same kind of ink as was used on the counterefeit bills the man was accused of making.

Confronted with this evidence, the man confessed that he had engraved the phony plates on sheets of lead with an ice pick!

And the bills were pretty fair imitations.

Item No. 2 was about the Virginia woman who apparently had forgotten we've had two wars since the late difficulty between the North and South.

She wrote in to the treasury department to complain because some war bond literature contained a quotation from Abraham Lincoln.

TODAY IN HISTORY

William Shakespeare, English poet and playwright, was born this date in 1564. Stratford-on-Avon was his birthplace and one which he always held dear to his heart. It was here on the fifty-second anniversary of his birth that Shakespeare died, April 23, 1616.

A Farmer's Diary

Strip Farming

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

TWO BROTHERS lived on adjoining farms. The land was hilly, except the narrow valley where a brook meandered through and formed swampy areas used for pasture. Both sets of buildings were located where springs of soft clear water flowed. A well-kept drive connected the brothers' residences.

The feeble father had divided his property between the two boys. Each had 100 acres of land. The newer, and smaller buildings, he put up. The old homestead was used by the brother who kept his father.

Twenty years ago the land had many rotting stumps about. Crops were good then, and the farms were profitable. As years went by, profits grew less and less. Many neighbors moved away. The one brother moved to town and for ten years rented his land to share-croppers. Finally the fields were so streaked with gullies that nobody cared to use the land. The buildings, too, were rapidly becoming useless.

Today as I drove by, I saw, on the homestead farm, a fine herd of Guernsey cattle. The house, the outbuildings and the barn were in good repair. The brother who kept his father until his death, and still managed frugally on the old home place was mending fence. I waved a greeting, and stopped.

"I believe you've lived in this neighborhood longer than any other family," I said.

"Nope," he answered. "There's one other man farther up the hollow. He gets a pension, or I guess he'd starve. My brother who lived over there, moved out and rented. Now his farm is gone. In ten more years it'll be a wilderness. Even the spring's dried up, because he had the timber all cut off. I knew it'd come to that when they put the sawmill in, and I told him so. But he hadn't the patience, nor the will to stick."

"Your land looks better than it did a few years ago."

His face lit up. "It is. By the barn, on the hill, where you see that wheat, is as good a stand as any bottom land will grow. I manured it, and used strip farming so 'twouldn't wash. I went to the county agricultural experiment station, several years ago, and learned some things. I got so much interested that I even took a six-weeks course at the state college. Now I'm more interested than ever, because I see I'm gaining ground. Strip farming on these hills is what will bring this neighborhood back to itself."

"Thanks to a few men like you," I remarked, as I drove on.

CHAPTER XXX

"Yes—a very sad case. I suppose I was lax in my care of Louise, but before I could guess what might happen she imagined she was in love with him."

"Yes, Mrs. Gordon. You might just tell me what happened later."

"Dr. Mitchell, Louise hated her father!"

"Really? Why?"

"I could never guess. Dr. Gordon was a saint." The woman's face was suddenly transformed. A look that was curiously still and white gave her an appearance of—Parris almost said "exaltation." It might have been nearly such an appearance if it had not been at the same time so hard, and so—yes, it was a cruel look. Every line of Mrs. Gordon's expression was fanatic. Parris felt a little creepy. He decidedly did not like this interview.

"I think I should see Louise and—"

"Listen, Doctor. After Drake McHugh met with his accident Louise had a terrible scene with Dr. Gordon. Then, a few days later, we heard the strange report that he had actually married a—a—"

"A Miss Monaghan, whom I know quite well, and who has taken marvelous care of Drake, Mrs. Gordon."

"Really? It seems remarkable, doesn't it? But from that day on Louise refused to leave her room. Dr. Gordon was not really well at the time—he was frightfully overworked—and the burden of trying to manage her fell on me."

"Manage her?"

"I don't mean that she was violent. She wouldn't speak. Then Dr. Gordon passed away. And now I have to tell you a terrible thing." Mrs. Gordon was shaking. When—when my dear husband was lying—here—in this room, Louise came downstairs I followed her after a few minutes, and found her—"

"Yes, Mrs. Gordon. Try to tell me—quietly."

"I—I found her—striking her dead father in the face, and—and cursing him!"

Parris caught his breath with surprise.

"I managed to get her upstairs without any one knowing about—the incident. I locked her in her room. That's why she was not at the funeral."

"And afterward?"

She kept silent. She showed no inclination to leave her room, and I decided it might be better to keep her door locked. She used to say terrible things about her father, and accuse him of unspeakable things. Dr. Mitchell, I want you to see Louise now and tell me what I should do. I—I cannot bear that my daughter should be insane, or that she should so defame the memory of a great man."

Parris arose quickly.

"Where is she?"

"I'll go with you. Then I'll leave you to talk to her."

Louise was lying on the bed with her arms crossed over her face.

"Daughter, listen to me. I've brought an old friend to see you."

Louise almost leapt from the bed. She looked wildly at Parris and sat down weakly.

"It's Parris Mitchell, daughter. Dr. Mitchell now, and he's come to see you."

Parris held out his hand. "Hello, Louise."

She looked at him for a full minute. "Parris?"

"I'm awfully glad to see you, Louise. It's been a long time."

"Yes." She repeated the words mechanically. "It's been a long time."

She kept her gaze fixed on his face. After a moment she turned toward her mother. "Go away."

Mrs. Gordon half sobbed, as she left the room.

Louise continued to stare. Her face was flushed. Her hair was untidy and hung about her shoulders. She was very thin, but her fragile prettiness remained.

She took a deep breath.

"You are Dr. Mitchell now?"

"Yes, Louise."

"I'm not crazy, Parris."

He smiled. "Of course not."

"It's a wonder I'm not, but I'm not."

"I know that, Louise."

"Have you seen Drake?"

"Yes."

"She married him!"

"Yes. She takes good care of him, Louise."

"My father cut his legs off, Parris."

"Yes, I know."

"Down at some kind of a depot. I saw the—I saw—"

"What do you mean, Louise?"

Parris laid his hand over hers, and she seized it with both of hers. "I saw what was left—on a table!"

Louise bit her lips hard.

"You must find out. There was a man who helped my father. Maybe he'd know."

"Yes, Louise. Know what?"

"He cut off Drake's legs on my account."

Parris started in spite of himself and, before he could think, drew back a little.

"You see! You think I'm crazy, too."

"Not at all. You surprised me." He spoke very quietly.

"That was one reason—the other was that he was a butcher. Oh, I read about things like that. He was cold as ice. He liked to butcher people. He was—oh, I knew the word once, I read it—Parris, you know—he was a sadist."

Parris held very still and kept his eyes on her face.

"Listen, Parris. This is my one chance. You've got to listen. I kept lists — he always talked about his operations. Other doctors don't do that. And nearly always he said the patient's heart was too weak for chloroform. But their hearts were not too weak to be cut to pieces. I tell you, Parris, he liked to hear them scream."

At that moment Parris was remembering something—a bright, sunny day, Renee, Willie Macintosh, and the appalling howls and screams of a man in utter agony.

A slight moisture came out on his brow.

"Parris!" Louise shook his arm. "I want you to begin quietly. I want you to gather all the evidence. I want—"

"But your father is dead, Louise. It's all over and done with."

"I want to destroy his memory!"

Parris leaned back in his chair and waited.

"Parris, will you help me?"

"Yes."

"What shall I do first?"

"Get up tomorrow and dress and go out."

She shrank away from him.

"You'll do that for me, won't you?"

The fright in her eyes subsided a little. "Yes, Parris."

"Fine. Now. . . ."

* * *

Dr. Thaddeus Nolan regarded Parris with scarcely concealed concern. Dr. Nolan had the face of a wise man, and a kind one. Several weeks earlier Parris had told him in detail the story of Louise Gordon. Since then they had discussed it a number of times. Parris had made no direct effort to check any of Louise's accusations, but Dr. Nolan was able to recall an incredible number of instances which fitted perfectly her story.

"How do you find Louise, Mitchell? Any change?"

"No. She goes about a great deal now. But I detect a slyness about her now that doesn't look well at all. She's got plans of some kind. It's a simple case, really, and runs exactly true to form."

Dr. Nolan tapped his front teeth with his pince-nez.

"I knew Gordon for more than thirty years." The remark seemed detached—apropos of nothing. But Parris knew that Dr. Nolan did not make remarks apropos of nothing.

"Dr. Nolan, I've never asked you one question, because I scarcely asked it of myself."

"I fancy I could guess it."

"I'd like to ask if you think there could be the slightest possible ground for Louise's charges against her father."

"Yes," he said quietly.

The answer was so unexpected that Parris gasped.

"You don't mean it."

"Certainly I mean it. Sadistic surgeons are not unknown in medical history."

"Well, yes. But heavens—"

"Mind you. I don't say we know anything about such a phase of Gordon, really. I knew that he was a fine diagnostician and an able surgeon. I never liked him, and in some ways I never trusted him. I don't suppose I ever asked myself why. Now, you're a little startled because you hear of some strange case that might have existed right here in Kings Row. If you had read of such a case existing in some remote town of Hungary, or Rumania, would you have been surprised, or shocked? Not at all."

Hollanders Are Forced to Fight In Nazi Army

MOSCOW—(INS)—Among Axis prisoners taken during an engagement on the Central front, numbered several Hollanders, a correspondent of the Red Army newspaper, "Red Star," reported.

The Dutchmen made some interesting revelations as to the way in which they became 'volunteers' in the German army.

It appears that they had been recruited for compulsory labor in German factories from their homes in and near Rotterdam. As soon as they arrived in Germany, however, they were told that they were to serve in the army and were shortly afterwards sent to the front.

There they were dispersed into various German infantry units and had spent several weeks in the front-line before being captured by the advancing Russians.

Every State Has Bell In Valley Forge Carillon

VALLEY FORGE, Pa.—(INS)—Dr. John Robbins Hart, rector of the Washington Memorial Chapel at Valley Forge, has announced that the Bell tower under construction at the national shrine will be completed and dedicated next Thanksgiving day.

The tower will house the carillon of 49 bells, one donated by each state in the Union and the National Birthday Bell. Total cost of the tower will be $75,000, with an additional $17,000 needed for five stained glass memorial windows.

Other memorials, Dr. Hart said, will include the 22 steps of Fame leading up to the tower; the door; the seat for the carilloneur, and inside steps connecting the tower and Museum building. The tower will be 95 feet in height and the bells will be hung 65 to 85 feet above the ground.

THEATERS

Absorbing Drama.

The engrossing story of a young Bostonian who seeks to escape the mound of tradition in which he is cast is set forth in "H. M. Pulham, Esq.," the Ohio attraction starring Hedy Lamarr, Robert Young and Ruth Hussey. Young plays the title role of a man who finds the one great love of his life but is forced to return to the conventions of his class. Hedy Lamarr plays the "career girl" who gives Pulham a taste of what life in the outside world is like while Ruth Hussey has the part of a young woman with no regard for the frivolities of life. Van Haflin and Charles Coburn are in the cast.

Mystery Comedy.

Gracie Allen is on her own in "Mr. and Mrs. North," the Madison attraction revolving around a murder mystery with plenty of comedy on the side. She appears for the first time on the screen without her husband, George Burns, and has for a leading man, William Post, jr., who played the male lead in the New York stage production, "My Sister Eileen." The picture deals with the efforts of a scatterbrained young wife who attempts to aid police in solving a murder. The supporting cast includes Paul Kelly, Millard Mitchell and Rose Hobart! "Castle In the Desert," the second feature has Rose Hobart.

Jackie Cooper Film.

Jackie Cooper and Susanna Foster are teamed in "Glamour Boy," at the Ritz. Walter Abel and Jackie Searl are others in the cast. Ricardo Cortez and Joan Woodbury appear in "I Killed That Man," the second attraction.

Sparkling Comedy.

The romantic entanglements involving a young band leader and how they affect the prosperity of his small musical group form the basis of "Four Jacks and a Jill," comedy with music featuring Ray Bolger and Anne Shirley. Showing at the Park the picture that features the dancing Bolger also has Desi Arnaz, the young Cuban, who made such a hit in Gloria Swanson's picture, "Father Takes a Wife." Gene Autry and Smiley Burnette in "Goldmine In the Sky," is the second feature.

The Crimean war was one of the bloodiest in history. The British forces lost 22 out of every 100 men, the French 31, the Turks 27 and the Russians 43.

Enlisted Police Aid to Find His Missing Molars

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—(INS)—Police of this city fulfilled a request which they record as a new high to prove that there's nothing people won't ask the long arm of John Law to do.

They received a frantic request from a Clearwater, Fla., gentleman asking them to locate a set of new false teeth, lost while he was on a spree in the local bars on a Saturday night.

"They were brand new," he wrote, "and I've only used them once."

Blessed with use of their original meat kneaders, two detectives were touched by the appeal, and set out on a search that took them through six bars.

Without Painful Backache

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

BARNES BOUGHT FAMOUS RENOIR FOR $175,000

French Master's Painting Is Added to Collection of Modern Art.

(By United Press)

MERION Pa.—Dr. Albert C. Barnes has purchased Renoir's "Mussel Fishers at Gerneval," one of the French artist's most celebrated paintings, for $175,000.

It will be added to more than 200 Renoirs in his collection of modern art, one of the finest in the world. Known as the Barnes Foundation, Dr. Barnes' gallery is a school of art appreciation and admission is restricted to its 200 students.

The price was the second highest ever paid for a Renoir, Dr. Barnes believes. Highest was $250,000, paid by the National Gallery of London for "The Opera Box."

Dr. Barnes says of the painting, "Its color knocks you cold and burns you up with excitement. There must be turmoil indeed in Paris now that this pearl of the Durand-Ruel private collection is allowed to get out of their hands."

"Mussel Fishers at Berneval" portrays a woman and three children standing on a sea shore. A basket for carrying mussels is strapped to the woman's back. The canvas is six feet high and four feet, three inches wide. It is larger than any Renoir in Dr. Barnes collection and may be the largest picture the artist ever painted.

It was painted in Normandy in 1879. The late Pierre Durand-Ruel, art dealer and friend of the artist, bought it from Renoir. He paid less than $100, Dr. Barnes believes.

Since 1913, Dr. Barnes has been trying to buy the "Mussel Fishers" without success. A short time before war broke out, Pierre Durand-Ruel's grandsons, who had inherited the painting upon his death, sent it to New York for safe-keeping. Recently, Dr. Barnes was notified that it was at last for sale.

"A principal reason I had for wanting the 'Mussel Fishers,'" Dr. Barnes says, "is that, apart from being one of the important pictures of the world, it shows certain phases of Renoir's development—his transition stage from the early great work he did from 1875-78 to the period after 1879.

"It will be particularly valuable for our advanced students, in fact, it is a tremendous contribution to art education in America."

Would Use World Group to Gather Date On Disease

SAN FRANCISCO—(INS)—The control of epidemics after the present war must rest on the formation of some co-operative world organizations such as the League of Nations once provided.

This is the opinion of Dr. Chauncey Leake, Professor of Pharmacology at the University of California Medical School.

Public health was one field in which the League functioned effectively, Dr. Leake said and it was a field in which the United States gave leadership.

By gathering data on disease from all over the world, League public health authorities were able to chart the course of epidemics, much as meteorologists chart the weather, and were thus able to take effective steps against them.

'HOBBIES' TO BE PROGRAM THEME

"Hobbies" will be the theme of the program for the Brotherhood meeting of the First Methodist church Friday at 6:30 p. m. in the church parlors. Supper will be served followed by the entertainment. New members will be introduced and participate in the demonstrating of hobbies.

Arrowheads will be exhibited by John Weil, all sizes and types of fiddles by Will Kurtz, guns and accessories by S. G. Bushman; fire arms by Harold Getz; archery equipment by F. B. Risley.

OPENS DRIVE ON CHEMICAL WARFARE PROGRAM OF AXIS

(By International News Service)

CINCINNATI — On a battle-front where test tubes, retorts and myriad other scientific instruments of peace time form the heavy artillery to beat the foe, more than two score physicians have begun an assault on the chemical warfare program of Axis nations.

All are members of a newly formed department sponsored by the Office of Civilian Defense (OCD) at the University of Cincinnati's College of Medicine and Kettering Laboratory of Applied Physiology.

These men hope, not only to find remedies for offsetting the terrible effects of war, gas, flame throwers, and the like, but, when peace comes, to have new remedies for industrial poisons.

The problems of chemical warfare and industrial poisons are said to be so closely related that the OCD has called medical experts in the field of industrial poisons to take brief, but intensive courses under direction of medical men who have treated victims of chemical warfare. One of these is Dr. James MacIntosh, professor of public health at the University of Glasgow, Scotland.

Dr. MacIntosh is in this country as a guest of the Rockefeller Foundation and adviser to the OCD. He has had wide experience treating English war victims of chemical warfare. Working with him is Col. Sidney H. Guthrie, professor of military science and tactics at the university, and the chemical welfare service of the U. S. Army.

In charge of the work is Dean Stanley Dorts of the College of Medicine. Aiding him are Dr. Leo Goldman, an expert in skin treatment, and Dr. Robert A. Kehoe, director of the Kettering Laboratory and many members of the school faculty.

A first aid station designed by Elmer W. Christy of the Cincinnati public schools has been produced by the industrial arts department of the Columbia school for use of the physicians, who have come here from all parts of the east. Later it will be exhibited in eastern cities.

WARNING FOR WARDENS

PLAN TO HIRE ENGINEER AT GALION SOON

Would Work With Railroad on Plans for New City Reservoir.

GALION—Mayor William Amann announced Wednesday that the city of Galion will employ a civil engineer to work with New York Central railroad engineers in the construction of the proposed reservoir to be built east of the city.

The reservoir is in response to the increased water supply which is necessary for the maintenance of the railroads.

Mayor Amann said he had conferred with railroad officials and as the proposal now stands, it would seem advisable for the railroad to construct the reservoir, giving Galion the right to share in the water supply.

When the city council met Tuesday night Paul A. Uhlmann, consulting engineer, of Columbus, gave technical information necessary for construction.

Bert Wilson, chairman of the Crawford county election board, has reported that redistricting of the city will be made within the next two months. Such plans are necessary because of increased home building and because of annexation made to the city several years ago.

The plan is to change the lines of the first, second, and third wards, adding one extra precinct in the first ward. In the event that such a plan is not approved by the city council, the board will have to make additional precincts within the present wards. This would necessitate at least two and possibly three additional precincts, Wilson said.

WINS IN SCRAP BOOK CONTEST

GALION—When winners of a scrap book contest, "Food For Freedom," were announced Wednesday by the Crawford County Agricultural Adjustment association, Mildred Hoover, seventh grade, received first prize. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Hoover, Mansfield road. She was given a defense album with $1 worth of defense stamps.

Marjorie Garverick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Garverick, received second prize; Laura Heffelfinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Heffelfinger, third prize.

The prizes were awarded by Mrs. L. P. Auck, Whetstone township, field representative of the association. The scrapbooks were entered from Elsa Dapper's Scrap Book club at the Junior high school.

PLAN CANVASS

BUCYRUS—When the government's campaign for pledges to buy war bonds and stamps gets under way May 1 auxiliaries of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars will take the initiative by making a house to house canvass of Bucyrus for pledges, it was announced Wednesday by County Chairman E. Blair Ruhl.

Rural house to house canvass will be conducted through the rural schools, it has been announced by County Supt. Glen West, and in Galion the city's service clubs will make a similar canvass by dividing the city into precincts, different precincts being given to certain clubs.

ASHLAND GRAND JURY RETURNS 8 INDICTMENTS

Examines Thirty Witnesses In Considering 13 Cases.

ASHLAND—The Ashland county grand jury completed a two-day session yesterday afternoon returning eight bills in 13 cases considered. Thirty witnesses were examined.

Kenneth G. Kirkpatrick, formerly of Mansfield, was indicted for unlawfully obtaining money under false pretenses, the indictment charging him with obtaining $125 from E. R. Sevits of Ashland on representation that he and Sevits for $125 apiece could purchase some 270 used tires from the General Finance company of Mansfield.

Kirkpatrick has been in the county jail here since Feb. 5.

Norman E. Robertson of Ashland was indicted on four counts of forgery, two counts each on two indictments. Robertson is charged with forging checks in the amounts of $24, $7, and $22.10.

Christian Gimble, manager of the Central Hotel of Ashland, was indicted for converting household goods and personal property given to him in trust by Rose Thomen to his own use.

William Hawkins of near Sullivan was indicted for operating a motor vehicle on March 11 while under the influence of intoxicants.

Earl Morris of south of Loudonville was indicted for burglary and larceny in breaking and entering the dwelling house of Walter E. Heffelfinger on Aug. 3, 1939, and stealing money and old coins of the value of $80. Morris was apprehended by police at Loudonville.

Merle Swope of Ruggles was indicted for petty larceny in the theft of a saddle and bridle from B. J. Ramerman on the value of $25 on March 1, 1942.

Clifford E. Fry, alias Jack Fry, was indicted for non-support.

Grand jurors completed their session by inspecting the county jail and reported that they found all rules kept and no provision of law for regulation of prisoners violated.

Mrs. Jasmund formerly resided five miles east of Galion. After a short wedding trip the couple will reside in Adrian, Mich., where the bridegroom is employed.

LOAN COMPANY PAYS DIVIDEND

Holmes County Savings To Make 20 Per Cent Distribution.

MILLERSBURG—A third liquidating dividend of 20 per cent, amounting to $48,337.92 will be paid to 275 stockholders of The Holmes County Savings and Loan company on April 24. The dividend has been approved by Charles S. Merion, superintendent of building and loan association and the board of directors of the company.

The loan company went into voluntary liquidation Jan. 15.

The first liquidating dividend of 10 per cent was paid Feb. 14. The second dividend of 10 per cent was paid March 20. With the payment of the third dividend a total of $96,977.19 has been disbursed to the stockholders in the three months the company has been in liquidation.

Carl A. Hopkins, deputy superintendent in charge of the liquidation, said it would be necessary for all stockholders to either bring or mail their passbooks or stock certificates to the company offices on North Clay street in order to receive their dividend. Another liquidating dividend will be paid in the near future, Mr. Hopkins, stated.

JUNIOR SOROSIS HAS MEETING WEDNESDAY

Mrs. Frank Breckenridge Gives Interesting Talk on Wild Flowers at Meeting Held at Home of Miss Esther Snyder.

MRS. FRANK BRECKENRIDGE gave an interesting and informative talk on "Wild Flowers" at the meeting of the Mansfield Junior Sorosis club held Wednesday evening at the home of Miss Esther Snyder, 65 Bartley avenue. During Mrs. Breckenridge's talk she gave a list of wild flowers that can be picked and a list of those which should not be picked. "Wild flowers are becoming scarce due to the fact that when people pick them they are not careful and pull out the roots," said Mrs. Breckenridge.

The following wild flowers can be picked: red clover, jimson weed, forget-me-nots, violets, toad flax, asters, pasture thistle, evening primrose, golden rod, bind weed, dandelion, Queen Anne's lace, jewel weed, black-eyed susan, boneset, joe-pye-weed, swamp buttercup, dentarias, bouncing bet, cone flower, corn salad, elderberry, matrimony vine and ground ivy.

Wild flowers that should not be picked are lobelia, wild geranium, rue - anemonie, dutchman's breeches, trillium, arbutus, false solomon's seal, true solomon's seal, bloodroot, azalea, jack-in-the-pulpit, bellworts, wood lilies, viper's bugloss, dogwood, running strawberry, lady slipper and all orchids.

Mrs. Stuart Baird, president, conducted the business session. A nominating committee, including Mrs. Frank Breckenridge, chairman, Mrs. Andrew Mott and Miss Snyder, was named by the president. The committee in charge of the annual party, which will be held on May 20, includes Miss Dorothy Moser, Mrs. A. H. Moellenkamp and Mrs. Eugene Linham. The next regular meeting will be held May 6 at the home of Mrs. Mott, 128½ Washington street.

'Eyesight and Lighting' Discussed by Speakers

Meeting of the Mansfield Council of Parents and Teachers which was held at John Simpson Junior high school last night was called to order with the Pledge of Allegiance. Little Mary Elaine Divelbiss gave two readings, "My Baby Brother" and "My Little Donkey."

Mrs. R. M. Beatty, program chairman, introduced Mrs. C. S Fernyak, health chairman, who had charge of the program. Topic was "Eyesight and Lighting." Dr. O. H. Schettler spoke on the importance of nutrition in connection with eyesight. He stressed the importance of Vitamin A for vision. Through tests given to school students it was found that a large percentage are deficient in Vitamin A.

Joy Herbert presented Robert Butts, lighting expert for the Ohio Public Service company. His subject was "The Importance of Good Lighting in the School as Well as in the Home." Mr. Butts suggested that a survey be made of lighting conditions in the schools. This should be done to determine whether or not the schools need additional lighting. The speaker stated that this has been done in many neighborhood communities. In making surveys, it was found that Sandusky has an excellent set-up. Mr. Butts also stated that improved lighting conditions will add to the health of the child and lower the educational cost per pupil.

AT GOETZ HOME.

Miss Marguerite Goetz, South Diamond street was hostess to 15 members of the E-T club for a dinner party at her home on Tuesday. Cut flowers decorated the small tables where dinner was served. The evening was spent socially and folding bandages. Next meeting will take place on May 5 at the home of Mrs. Stenna Mansfield, Distl avenue.

A resolution was passed by the Council recommending that the Board of Education have a survey made of the lighting conditions in the schools. Mrs. K. E. Ruhr presided for the business session. [illegible] offices of the Council board were filled. E. W. Kissel was elected vice president and Mrs. E. C. Peat was chosen secretary. Retiring officers are C. A. Divelbiss, vice president, and Mrs. C. F. Farry, secretary.

The Council voted to contribute to the Community Fund. Mrs. L. E. Strain gave a report on the conference held at Wellington. Next meeting of the Council will be held on May 27 at John Simpson Junior high school. Mrs. E. Ray Jenkins will be in charge.

TABLE DECORATIONS EFFECTIVE AT DINNER

Four Seasons of Year Featured at Annual Birthday Party of Mayflower Congregational Church.

ANNUAL birthday party of the Mayflower Congregational church was held last evening in the church parlors with 200 in attendance. The program consisted of musical selections by the church school, women's sextet, accordion solo by Eileen Dysart and military tap dance by Ettabel Hunter and Marjorie Sheehy. Motion pictures were shown by Harold O. Dysart. The party is sponsored each year by the Love and Friendship class.

Refreshments were served at four tables depicting the seasons of the year. Flowers decorated each table. A Maypole and 10 dolls in color scheme of yellow and white were featured on the spring season table. For summer, there was a patriotic setting with a large cake, decorated with the American flag, as centerpiece. A summer vacation scene consisting of lake, sand and wild animals, also was arranged.

The table representing fall was decorated around the Thanksgiving theme. Encircled by a fence were a group of Puritans and a turkey gobbler, corn and pumpkins. There were leaves around the edge of the table. The winter table featured the holiday season. Cake used as a centerpiece was decorated with a poinsettia and green holly. There was a village scene showing the manger and the Christ child. Santa Claus could be seen in his sleigh driving into the village along a road lined with pine trees.

One Won One Class Elects New Officers

Leonard Ebbert was elected president of the One Won One class of the First United Presbyterian church at a meeting held in the church parlors on Tuesday. Others chosen to serve with him are H. F. Althouse, vice president, and Mrs. Henry Senert, secretary-treasurer.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kafer, Mr. and Mrs. A. Rust, jr., and Mrs. Mildred Ingram were in charge of arrangements for the covered-dish dinner which was enjoyed by 40 members of the class. The tables were attractively decorated with bouquets of spring flowers. Devotions and business session were led by Mr. Ebbert following the dinner.

Next meeting will be held in the church parlors on May 12 with the following committees in charge: Mr. and Mrs. Harry Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Althouse and Mrs. Richard Painter.

Use Spry for all your pastry—for FULL FLAVOR cakes and fried foods, too. Get Spry now and try this recipe today!
Coconut Orange Cream Tarts
2 cups milk; 3 tablespoons flour; 1 tablespoon cornstarch; ½ cup sugar; ¼ teaspoon salt; 2 egg yolks, slightly beaten; 1 teaspoon vanilla; ¾ cup shredded coconut, cut; 1 teaspoon grated orange rind; 8 baked Orange Tart Shells
Scald milk in top of double boiler. Combine flour, cornstarch, sugar, and salt and mix thoroughly. Add to scalded milk and cook until thick and smooth, then cook 15 minutes longer, stirring occasionally. Stir a small amount of mixture into beaten egg yolks, return to double boiler, and cook a few minutes longer. Cool and add vanilla. Rub coconut and orange rind together. Add to cream filling and blend. Pour filling into baked Orange Tart Shells.
Make a meringue by beating 2 egg whites and ¼ teaspoon salt until they hold a stiff peak. Add 4 tablespoons sugar gradually, beating constantly. Pile lightly on filling. Bake in slow oven (325° F.) 20 to 25 minutes, or until firm and delicately browned. Makes 8.
Orange Tart Shells
Mix 2¼ cups sifted all-purpose flour and 1 teaspoon salt. Add 2 tablespoons grated orange rind and blend. Measure out ¾ cup Spry and divide into two equal parts.
STEP 1 for tenderness — Cut in first half of Spry until fine as meal. This makes the crust tender.
STEP 2 for flakiness — Cut in rest of Spry until particles are size of large peas. This makes crust flaky.
Add 5 tablespoons orange juice (no more, no less), mixing thoroughly into a dough. Roll ⅛-inch thick, prick with fork, cut in 5-inch rounds and fit snugly over outside of muffin pans, pinching into about 7 pleats. Bake in very hot oven (450° F.) 8 to 10 minutes. Makes 12 tart shells.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

I never have been more "put to it," as Mrs. Ticer would say, than I was to force my voice to calmness as I answered Gus. I did not mind my father's faithful helper knowing that I was agitated, but I did not wish the head of the state troopers to guess how perturbed I was, or that I had made any upsetting discovery.

I employed the first device which came into my mind, a violent coughing fit, and waited for a second before calling out raspingly and unsteadily:

"I'll be out directly. Something just caught in my throat, but I'll be all right."

"Don't try to talk!" Gus adjured me, and the captain of the troopers added an encouraging "Take your time."

Silent About Her Discovery.

I obeyed him for the seconds it took to bring up from the hidden cavity the carved ivory cube so familiar to me, secrete it in a silken handerchief folded in a jewel case which I always carry in my purse, then replace the floor panel concealing the cavity and roll the rug over it again. One last second I spent in bracing myself to appear calm and collected, then opened the door.

"I am so sorry to keep you waiting," I told the head of the troopers with earnestness, and he smiled widely at me.

"You didn't keep me," he said, "and if you had, it would be all right. Now—"

He did not add "What's on your mind?" but I understood the unspoken query and hastened to answer it, thrusting deep under cover all thought of the carved ivory cube until I should have leisure to consider its startling implications.

Taking No Chances.

"Mr. Watson tells me, Captain," I began, "that you are planning to drive directly to a hospital with these men."

He looked at me shrewdly.

"I was," he said. "In fact, I've got to take my own man there as soon as possible. Apparently he's not seriously hurt, but I don't want to take any chances on him."

"Of course not," I said, "and I am so sorry he should have been hurt on account of a call from me."

"It's all in the day's work," he said. "We have to expect that sort of thing. But—have you any other plan for those men we've got tied up out there?"

"Why, yes, I have," I admitted. "If my father approves—I'm going to call him directly—I'd like to take all of those men down to New York with me, so that he can deal with them himself. But of course I cannot do that if there is danger that death or serious infection might result from delaying surgical treatment."

Gangsters Not Badly Hurt.

"You don't need to worry on that score," the captain returned. "They're not badly hurt, any of them, although two of them will be out of commission for awhile. But it will be perfectly safe for you to take them down to New York. How are you going to transport them? In their own car?"

"Yes, if you approve," I told him, trying to be tactful. "We have an extra han who can drive their car."

"I can spare you a man to help guard them," he said, "and then you wouldn't have to waste time going past the hospital. You could go your way and we would go ours."

"That would be splendid," I told him, and then he hesitatingly made another suggestion.

Suggests Taking Watson.

"Those are pretty tough babies," he said, "and Watson tells me you have also the two who were here tied up in Branchman's car."

"That's right," I assented.

"That makes six desperate men to look after, even if they are all tied up securely," he said slowly. "As I said, I can furnish you one man, but you really ought to have another one beside the driver."

"Whom would you suggest?" I asked, as he paused again.

"He isn't a police officer," he said, "but he's a mighty good man in a pinch—Jim Watson. And I happen to know that he'd jump at a chance to go to New York on an errand like this."

Vitamins In Evaporated Milk

By BETSY NEWMAN

Milk contains almost all the vitamins—A, B, C and G (B-2). Vitamin A content is vastly increased by evaporating and irradiating the milk. There is less D, more C and G, and D is added, so get your allotment of irradiated evaporated milk, according to what we are allowed by Mr. McNutt's list of essential foods required for each family, and use it. I'm giving you a gala "company" dinner today.

Today's Menu.

Cream of Onion Soup Crackers
Smothered Chicken
Mashed Potatoes
Hot Biscuits
Grapefruit-Avocado Salad
Pickles Buttered Broccoli
Custard Pie Coffee

Cream of Onion Soup.

5 medium sized onions or 2 large Spanish onions
2 tablespoons buiter
2 cups hot water
1 teaspoon salt
Few grains cayenne
⅛ teaspoon pepper
3 cups thin white sauce
1 egg yolk (optional)
½ cup evaporated milk (optional)
Grated cheese

Cook thinly sliced onions in butter for 10 minutes, stirring constantly; add hot water and seasonings and simmer slowly for 30 minutes or until onions are very soft. Force through puree sieve, blend with white sauce, add egg yolk and evaporated milk, reheat and serve with grated cheese. Serves 8.

* * *

Smothered Chicken.

1 chicken Chicken fat
Salt, pepper, flour

This is a good way to cook a lean young chicken. A small bird may be cooked whole, and a large one disjointed as for frying. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and flour, brown in fat, then cover pan and finish cooking in a slow oven (300 degrees F.). When chicken is tender, remove from pan. A 3 to 4 pound chicken will probably require 1½ to 2 hours to cook.

* * *

Custard Pie.

1½ cups evaporated milk
1½ cups water
½ cup granulated sugar
4 eggs
Unbaked pie crust
Grating of nutmeg
¼ teaspoon salt

Blend evaporated milk, water, slightly beaten eggs, sugar and salt together. Line pie tin with unbaked crust, building up fluted edge. Pour in filling, sprinkle with nutmeg and bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) to set edge, then decrease heat and bake about 40 minutes in slow oven (300 degrees F.). A knife blade inserted will come out clean when custard is done.

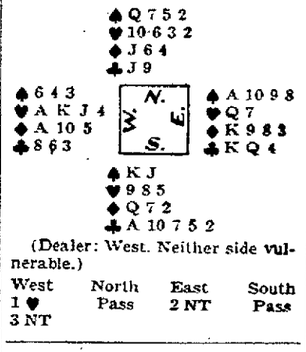
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

JUST A SINGLE DANGER

Successful play for a No Trump contract often depends upon protecting yourself against a single danger which threatens. Usually that consists of not letting the menacing defender gain the lead, whereas allowing his partner to have it would not entail any risk whatsoever. One such occasion comes when a particular defender has a set-up suit, ready to be run, and another when you have a guarded honor which is a stopper if led up to, but worthless if the lead comes through it.



(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
1 ♥	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 NT

This contract really should have been airtight, plus a possible extra trick, but one declarer, in the tournament where it was dealt, found a way to get himself beaten. After the club 5 lead to the J and K, he ran four hearts, discarding two spades from his own hand, and then took the diamond A and K. When he next led the diamond 9, North took it because South had shown foresight enough to put his Q on the K. In the lead, North put forth the club 9, and it was all over, for East's guarded Q was captured and four tricks scored in the suit.

Other declarers played the diamonds correctly after the same lead of the club 5 to the J and K. One of them went to work on the suit immediately, leading the 3 to the A and then the 10, which North ducked and East allowed to ride to the Q. South could not do any damage now. Hoping desperately that North had the heart Q, he led the 5, but East had that important card.

Consequently, four tricks in hearts, three in diamonds, one in clubs and one in spades made the contract perfectly safe, and still another one was taken because South got the next trick with his spade K and could cash only the club A before leading up to the club Q for the last trick. South could have prevented the extra trick by putting his spade K under the spade A, to make North's Q good, but would you have done that?

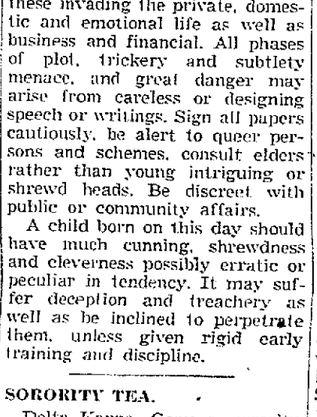
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: West. North - South vulnerable.)

If South gets into 4-No Trumps on this deal, doubled by West, who had bid spades and finally leads the club K, A and 4, how can South make his contract?

HOROSCOPE

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, April 24.

According to the ruling lunar and mutual aspects this may be a difficult and treacherous day, with many snares, pitfalls, and sinister undercurrents menacing all progress, enjoyment and fulfillment, as this subtle and sinister element seems to pervade all relations, business and personal. All concerning writings, agreements, documents, financial transactions, as well as travel, agents and promotional enterprises may be threatened unless extraordinary vigilance, precaution and safeguards be employed. Be wise with speech as well as pen, and be guided by old heads rather than young intriguers.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves beset and menaced by a host of intriguing treachous, erratic and peculiar circumstances during the year, these invading the private, domestic and emotional life as well as business and financial. All phases of plot, trickery and subtlety menace, and great danger may arise from careless or designing speech or writings. Sign all papers cautiously, be alert to queer persons and schemes, consult elders rather than young intriguing or shrewd heads. Be discreet with public or community affairs.

A child born on this day should have much cunning, shrewdness and cleverness possibly erratic or peculiar in tendency. It may suffer deception and treachery as well as be inclined to perpetrate them, unless given rigid early training and discipline.

SORORITY TEA.

Delta Kappa Gamma sorority members will hold a tea Sunday from two until four o'clock at the Susie Janis home. Miss Edna Morgan, state president, will be the honored guest.

TWO layer-cake treats
FOR THE WORK OF ONE!
(and only ⅔ cup sugar!)

RECIPE

TWO-IN-ONE CAKE

½ cup shortening
⅔ cup sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
¼ teaspoon salt
⅔ cup light corn syrup
⅔ cup milk
2 cups flour
3 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder

● Cream shortening; add sugar slowly, beat well. Add unbeaten eggs one at a time; beat well after each addition. Add vanilla. Blend syrup with milk. Sift together dry ingredients (and do use Royal Baking Powder. Now more than ever, you can't risk wasting ingredients on cake failures! Royal's steady action makes feathery light, tender cakes. And since it's made with cream of tartar, a pure fruit product, Royal never leaves a bitter taste). Add dry ingredients alternately with liquid to first mixture. Bake in 2 greased 8-inch layer pans in moderate oven 350° F. about 30 minutes.

NOW THEN—instead of using both layers for the same cake, cut one layer in half and put together with Fig Filling. Save the other layer till next day and use it with one of your other favorite fillings, and you have a fresh different cake—2 different, delicious treats, for the work of one! Try this soon! If you should want to use both layers at one time, double the recipe for Fig Filling.

FIG FILLING: Cook ½ cup chopped dried figs with ⅔ cup water and 1½ teaspoons lemon juice about 20 minutes, or until soft. Add 1 tablespoon butter; cool.

Model Planes Are Important In War Effort

PORTLAND, Ore.—(INS)—Model airplanes, until recently considered chiefly children's playthings, have assumed a place of importance in the war effort in Oregon.

Rex Putnam, State Superintendent of Schools, has asked that 4,000 scale model airplanes be built by the state's youth as part of a nation-wide program to assemble thousands of tiny craft for practice in aircraft recognition and gunnery sighting.

In Portland, high schools and civic clubs will sponsor the program and principals have agreed that students will furnish their own wood, principals the paint and the school system glue and nails.

The craft must be perfect reproductions of both American and enemy planes, and only models approved by the Federal Office of Education or the Bureau of Aeronautics will be acceptable. Each model will be inspected by a board before acceptance.

Consider 90 Per Cent Tax on Profits

THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Wide World War Analyst)

The significance of the British Commando raid on the coast of France in the neighborhood of the important channel part of Boulogne is the fact that the Britons encountered so little Nazi resistance that they were able to scout about for two hours and then withdraw without losing a man.

This daring raid lends confirmation to recent reports that, because of the urgent demand for troops on the Russian front, the Germans haven't been holding the channel coast in full strength. The Boulogne area is of the utmost military importance, and one would expect it to be about the last place the Nazis would leave with light protection, in view of their reported fear of an Allied invasion.

This ancient port lies within sight of the white cliffs of England, and is one of the harbors nearest the coast of Britain. German big guns can easily drop their freight of death on British towns from there.

It was from Boulogne that Napoleon in 1804 proposed to invade England. He abandoned this dangerous enterprise later.

The fact that the Commandos found this sector fairly easy of access gives wonder to what the situation may be at less important points along the French and Belgian coasts. That is a point which the Allies are bound to be investigating.

One of the great values of such a raid, of course, is to stimulate the Nazi fear of an invasion. Constant prodding by the Commandos certainly would compel the Nazis to man the defenses strongly, from Norway to Brest, for fear that one of these black-faced expeditions might be the spear-head for a major landing.

This would have the effect of making Hitler defend two fronts at once—something which every commander dreads and which the Nazi chief especially fears in view of the terrific pressure from the Red army.

These raids undoubtedly give courage to the rising revolt among the French people. That, too, is a very real threat to Hitler.

When we also take into account the fierce onslaught which the Royal Air Force is making on France and Germany, the cumulative offensive should prove of great value to the Russians, who have been urging that the Allies create another front.

Word that American airmen and Commandos are joining the British in these adventures against western Europe can bring no joy to Hitler.

Out of all this one would expect to see emerge a real invasion of western Europe by British and American fighting men. That it will come sooner or later there can be small doubt, and we are safe in saying that it will be at the earliest feasible moment.

CALLS OFFICIALS IN INQUIRY ON U. S. SHIPPING

Senate Defense Unit Queries Land and Eastman Regarding 'Transportation Paralysis.'

WASHINGTON—The senate defense committee today summoned Shipping Czar Admiral Emory S. Land, and Transportation Co-ordinator Joseph B. Eastman for questioning as an investigation was opened into both the international and domestic shipping situation.

With some officials voicing fears of "transportation paralysis" as the nation's war production mounts, Sen. Truman (D) Mo., chairman of the defense committee, said a thorough inquiry will be made.

Land, chief of the war shipping administration and chairman of the maritime commission, was expected to be questioned on charges of "slowdowns" in some ship yards.

Meantime, congress moved to speedily pass bills designed to step up the war effort.

The senate was expected to pass the Rogers bill creating a women's auxiliary army corps to free man power for purely military duties.

A measure authorizing the Reconstruction Finance corporation to finance all businesses to pass. While the bill is broad its practical effect is expected to be greatest in aiding automobile, truck and tire dealers.

"I understand there are some other frozen stocks of goods which would be affected," said Sen. Taft (R) Ohio, sponsor of the measure.

The senate also is expected to adopt a conference report on the $19,000,000,000 war appropriation bill and send it to the White House.

The measure, providing for 31,000 planes and other war equipment, carries the compromise profit limitation proposal giving the war and navy departments and maritime commission wide authority to order negotation of contracts to prevent exorbitant profits.

The house faces a bitter fight early next week over allotment of $110,000 to continue the work of the Dies committee.

TAKES OWN LIFE

Mansfielder Found Dead on Running Board of Auto.

Shortly after he had left work at the Ohio Brass company plant yesterday, the body of Andrew Miller, jr., 37, Mansfield R. D. 2, was found slumped on the running board of his automobile on Fifth avenue extension Dr. L. B. McCullough, Richland county coroner, said that Miller died from a self-inflicted rifle wound in the left temple.

His body was found at 5:15 p. m. by Walter Kumisarek, 392 St. Clair street, and George Urdia, 22 Crestline avenue, who were returning home from work. The men called Deputy Sheriff Glen Freeman, who said Miller had been having domestic difficulties.

Mr. Miller was born in Austria-Hungary Dec. 7, 1904, but came to Mansfield with his parents when he was but one year old.

Survivors are his widow, Eva; a daughter, Miss Idella Mae Miller; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Miller, sr., of Mansfield; eight sisters, Miss Julia Miller of Mansfield, Miss Daisy Miller of Bronzville, N. Y., Mrs. A. B. Rose of Benton, Ky., Mrs. F. E Groff of Pavonia, Mrs. John Edmonds of Sugar Grove, Mrs. James Stecker, Mrs. Jerry Ruckman, and Mrs. E. V. Cairns, all of Mansfield; and two brothers, John Miller of Mansfield and Michael of Camp Claiborne, La.

The body was removed to the Geiger funeral home where services will be held Saturday at 2 p. m. with elders from the Christian Apostolic church officiating. Burial will be in Mansfield cemtery.

HUNDREDS EXPECTED FOR YOUTH CONFERENCE AT CHURCHES HERE

Several hundred delegates from Richland county are expected to attend the 18th annual spring conference of the Christian Youth Council which will be held Saturday evening and Sunday with sessions at the Mayflower Congregational church and the St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church. A committee of eight from various denominations in the city is in charge of arrangements.

Miss Anna Knapp of St John's church is chairman and will be assisted by Miss Eunice Stough, Mayflower church; Miss Ruth Hockett, Robert Wolf and Miss Betty Homberger, all of the South Main street Evangelical church; Miss Marjorie Schmidt and Robert Hamilton of the St. John's Evangelical church; Miss Louise Briggs of the Church of the Brethren, Lincoln Heights and Merle McCullough of the First Christian church.

Those attending are to register at the Mayflower church at 5:30 p. m. Saturday. This will be followed by a banquet at 6:30 p. m. Rev. Don Cryer, Methodist minister from Carey, O., will furnish the evening program. His subject will be "Are Ye Able?"

In recognition of International Youth Sunday, which is observed by all Protestant denominations in the United States, England and Canada, delegates to the conference will attend a special service of worship at the St. John's church. Rev. P. H. Saleste, pastor will give the morning worship theme Appropriate programs will also be given during the Sunday school period.

Luncheon will be served at the St. John's church Sunday followed by a discussion program in charge of the Young People's League. Rev. Cecil C Hankins of Columbus, state Youth director and Religious Education instructor for the Ohio Council of Churches, will open the program, speaking on "Organization and Meaning of County Council

Mrs. Irma Augustine of Mansfield will speak on "Race Relations." "Planning Christian Reconstruction" will be the topic presented by Rev. A. L. Linder of the Park avenue Baptist church and Rev. Milton Johnson of the First Lutheran church will speak on "Social Action." The conference will be brought to a close by election of officers and a consecration service.

LESS TRUANCY

Absentees Fewer in Schools Despite Spring.

Despite the arrival of spring, the traditional season for playing hookey from school, attendance in Mansfield schools in March showed a decided gain over February, according to reports submitted to Supt. W. L. Miller.

Attendance averaged 92.6 per cent last month and 90.6 per cent in February. The number of pupils who were neither absent nor tardy increased from 2,311 in February to 2,711 last month.

The Woodland school had the best attendance record last month, reporting 96 per cent of the enrollment present. The Brinkerhoff school was close behind with 95.6 per cent.

The Newman, Brinkerhoff, Prospect, Woodland, and Western avenue schools had no truancy cases John Simpson junior high reported 24 and Senior high, 14 Senior high had 265 cases of tardiness, more than any other school. John Simpson junior high reported 163, and Johnny Appleseed junior high, 140 Woodland school had only nine.

LEGISLATORS WAIT DETAILS OF FDR TALK

House Committee Studying Plan to Take Excess Corporate Income.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The White House gave a fairly definite indication today that President Roosevelt's anti-inflation message to congress would be sent up on Monday but that a fireside radio address on the same subject would be deferred to some other day.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — A proposal that corporate excess profits taxes be lifted to the unprecedented level of 90 per cent was studied by the house ways and means committee today as it awaited details of President Roosevelt's anti-inflation expected to be announced next week.

The increase from the present 60 per cent maximum was advocated by statisticians employed at the capital to assist in writing new tax measures and came during the committee's first-day discussion of the administration's $7,000,000,000 tax program.

Secretary Morgenthau's tax aides were reported to have told the committee there would be no objection to going above the 75 per cent level they recommended, but the increase should be coupled with a reduction of normal taxes.

Members said two uncertainties would have to be removed before even a tentative decision on the excess profits rate could be reached These were:

1. Reports that President Roosevelt might include in his projected price-profits control recommendations next week a request for almost confiscatory corporation taxes, combined with some form of freezing of wages.

2. Whether a formula for government retention of the top layer of corporation profits as a postwar "nest egg"—recommended by the treasury and several witnesses before the committee—could be agreed upon.

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau has suggested that the revenue from excess profits taxes above 80 per cent be held by the government for return to corporations after the war.

The committee began its closed-door study of new taxes yesterday according to its prearranged plan, starting with a general discussion of the corporation tax picture.

Discussion of possible new individual taxes and a sales tax will be deferred for several weeks.

Up and Down THE Street

In the flood of letters which the Ralph Stantons are receiving as an aftermath of the family pictures and article in last week's issue of Life is one from Charles A. (Carl) Burrows, a native Mansfielder whose home is now in Harmarville, Pa. (P. O. Box 369), and who wonders if there is anyone around here who remembers him, although he left here in 1889, when quite a small boy. He recalls, however, that he was back through Mansfield in May, 1940, with a covered wagon, drawn by six oxen, en route to the St. Louis world fair, and that Mayor Huntington Brown delegated a policeman to meet the outfit and extend welcome to the city.

The special display case at the Mansfield Public Library has taken on the appearance of a miniature millinery department The tiny models, no two of them alike, were all made by members of the Soroptimist club to be used as favors at the midwestern regional conference of Soroptimist clubs in Mansfield this week-end. They were woven out of pulled crepe paper by the respective members and then the entire 125 of them were trimmed with bits of ribbon, flowers and veiling by Mrs. Russell Gumbel who supervised the project.

The Madison high school band was playing for all the soldiers who left Mansfield this morning for an induction station, but there was one in particular who was in the minds of the players. He was William Kopcial, Madison high teacher, who left with the group. While the band willingly agreed to play for any of the soldier send-offs, the players asked that they be permitted to play today because that's when their teacher was leaving.

Nine-year-old Jerry Burkhart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Burkhart, 412 Cline avenue, was the first Brinkerhoff school youngster to receive a letter in response to garden seeds sent to England several months ago. Jerry's "thank you note" from Douglas Reading of Windsor Berks, England, arrived yesterday. Douglas had received the package of seeds to which Jerry's name and school were attached. The British youngster said he'd like to have more seeds and asked Jerry to write to him.

DIES AT AGE 70

Walter Cromer Stricken at Home of Son Wednesday.

Walter Cromer, 70, a native of Mansfield, died yesterday at the home of his son, Carl A. Cromer, in Washington township, after a brief illness.

Mr. Cromer was born in Mansfield on Oct. 14, 1871, and lived here the greater part of his life. He was a well-known plumber in this vicinity. He was a member of the Springfield area of the Fraternal Order of Eagles.

Survivors are his son, Carl A. Cromer, and two grandsons, Richard and Robert Cromer, all of Washington township. The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home where services will be held tomorrow at 3:30 p. m. with W. H. G. Kegg, former leader of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, officiating. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

EARNINGS BY PUPILS $528

High School Class Works 1,943 Hours In Stores.

Twenty-four pupils in the distributive education class at Senior high school earned a total of $528 in Mansfield stores last month while they were learning salesmanship.

Each pupil earned an average of $5.51 a week, working 20 hours. Their pay average was 27½ cents per hour. The young student-workers were on the job a total of 1,943 hours during the month.

In connection with the course at the high school, G. E. Sherman, head of the school's commercial department, is teaching a class in bookkeeping for employes of Mansfield grocery stores. Fifteen persons are enrolled. Classes are held two hours weekly over a period of six weeks.

DIES AT GALION

GALION — George E. Price, 66, died at his home here early today following a short illness.

Surviving are his widow, Alvora, and two brothers, Charles N., of Detroit, and Francis of Mansfield.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Saturday at the Volk funeral home. Rev. W. J. Keener, pastor of the Church of Christ, will officiate. Burial will be in Fairview cemetery.

Bernie Bierman, the old Minnesota grid coach, who had the world and Northwestern stopped by a secret play last fall, thinks it's a good thing for America that we got in this war.

"It's time," says Bernie, "that we were getting in shape."

"Whether we like it or not," says he, "our enemy was tougher and had more stamina than we had at the outbreak of the war."

* * *

"We had enough athletics to toughen and harden us," Bierman said last night at Columbus, "but not enough people got into our athletics."

And, taking over as director of athletics at the naval pre-flight training school at the University of Iowa Monday, Bierman says a most strenuous conditioning program is planned for the cadets.

So now that we have Bernie's word for it, we can believe that the conditioning program which Ed Chatlain and Huber McCuen, Mansfield athletes, have undertaken under Gene Tunney's banner, is worth while. So many people, as Ed recently complained, had the idea that the nation's athletes were dodging the draft by trying to make the rest of the nation healthy.

* * *

And before I forget it, let me be the first to tell the nation that Bob Feller is a mail man now.

That's the way Ed told it to me. "Feller was supposed to bring us our mail each day, and when we didn't get any mail we always said that Feller must be out pitching again today." Chatlain said.

"Of course we meant pitching baseball."

Harry Mehock just calls up to say that there will be no Tygersenior football game this spring after all. The game was booked for next Monday.

After taking a good look at the field, high school officials decided the field could use a little grass which it wouldn't have if the game were played, Mehock reported.

So for the lack of a little grass, next year's Tygers won't have to play last year's. And that probably won't make them very mad.

Elliott Transfer Works

Frankie Frisch Switches Gardener to Infield.

By JUDSON BAILEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

The prize experiment of the year in the major leagues may turn out to be the transfer of Robert Irving Elliott from the outfield to third base by the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Manager Frank Frisch shuffles his lineups almost every day "just for luck" and has not the least hesitancy about switching a player from one position to another. But the shift that brought the Frisco kid in from the outfield was born of necessity.

Last winter Lee (Jeep) Handley was in an automobile accident and apparently suffered nothing more serious than scratches. But when he reported at training camp in California he suddenly discovered his arm was "dead."

Onkel Franz canvassed his squad and came upon the 25-year-old Elliott, who six years ago, when he was breaking into organized ball, played part time third base for Savannah in the South Atlantic league.

* * *

Here, Frisch decided, was the answer. In two seasons with the Pirates Elliott had indicated he never was going to be any Terry Moore as a ball hawk even though he showed lots of promise at the plate and was good enough last season to make the National league all-star team.

* * *

Observers remained skeptical on Elliott, however, until the season actually was under way. Since then he has made everybody sit up and take notice. In nine games he has his three home runs, to lead the league, and two triples, to tie for the lead.

His batting average is a gaudy .342 and his fielding and throwing have bordered on the sensational after a nervous debut.

Yesterday he contributed a two-run homer to Pittsburgh's 9-1 triumph over the Chicago Cubs, whose coach, Kiki Cuyler, said, "We've played both the Cardinals and Reds and I rate Pittsburgh ahead of them so far." The Pirates got seven-hit pitching by Luke (Hot Potato) Hamlin, the former Dodger star, and really looked formidable.

However, Brooklyn retained its grip on the National league lead by beating the Boston Braves 4-0 in 12 innings. Whitlow Wyatt, making his first start of the season, kept the Braves scoreless for nine innings and gave up ten hits. Hugh Casey kept them hitless and spotless the rest of the way. Jim Tobin held the Dodgers to four hits in 11 innings, but in the 12th Peewee Reese singled with the bases loaded and the party ended promptly.

The St. Louis Cardinals riddled Cincinnati's Elmer Riddle with 11 hits in seven stanzas and triumphed 6-1 on the seven-hit hurling of Harry Gumbert.

Rookie Dave Koslo, a southpaw, shut out the Phils 3-0 for the New York Giants with six-hit pitching.

The American league saw some more big hitting. The New York Yankees collected 18 safeties, including a home run and two triples by Joe DiMaggio, to overpower the Philadelphia Athletics 11-5 and the Boston Red Sox rolled up 17 hits in walloping the Washington Senators 13-4.

The Cleveland Indians captured their fourth straight victory 3-2 from the St. Louis Browns, who were held to five safeties by their former teammate Vernon Kennedy. The Chicago White Sox muzzled the Detroit Tigers 3-1 with Don Kolloway getting a double and two singles to figure in all Chicago's scoring.

On Your Mark! Get Ready! Go

That nervous moment for all runners, the start. The camera has caught a good one at the recent University of California-U. S. C. dual meet in Berkeley, with the runners competing in the 440-yard dash. Grover Klemmer, center, California's world record-holder in the quarter, injured a thigh muscle 20 yards after the start and pulled up lame. Cliff Bourland of U. S. C., left, won it and Rubie Kerns of U. S. C., right, finished second.

Tribe Picks Up Winner

Kennedy Shows He Can Still Go Distance.

ST. LOUIS—(AP)—There is good reason for the Cleveland Indians to hope that they, too, can pick up a pitching castoff who will make good.

Vernon Kennedy's five-hit, 3-2 triumph over his old St. Louis mates at Cleveland yesterday was so authentic that the Tribe could well wonder whether it was making up for such past mistakes as parting with Whitlow Wyatt, Thornton Lee and Joe Dobson—only to see them turn into winners for other clubs.

The lanky righthander bore little resemblance to the man who won only three games while dropping 11 with the Browns and Washington last season.

George McQuinn's double was the only extra base blow off Kennedy and of the other four hits, one was a ninth-inning sacrifice bunt which counted only because Kennedy couldn't decide where to play the ball. Yesterday's defeat was the Brownies' fourth setback in a row and represented as many consecutive triumphs for the Indians.

The Tribe trailed two of its runs after Oris Hockett singled, Ken Keltner sending him home with line drive doubles. Keltner tallied the other run because Bob Muncrief intentionally walked Fleming to get at Manager Lou Boudreau, who singled off the right field wall.

The clubs came here to resume hostilities today on a tour which will keep Cleveland on the road until Sunday, May 10. Jim Bagby was Boudreau's pitching choice, with the Indians' old jinx Elden Auker ready to go for the Browns.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—This week's tearjerker: While Ed Dudley was attending a dinner thrown for him by Philadelphia golf pros the other night, someone who didn't have the best interests of golf at heart swiped the front wheels from his car . . . Just before retiring as president of the Los Angeles ball club, Dave Fleming ordered a set of 1942 uniforms for the club to make sure the boys wouldn't be attired in those knitted affairs the Cubs wear . . . The Navy will spend $22,600 for a new gym and $13,000 for a boxing pavilion at St. Mary's college, which already has pretty good athletic facilities. That ought to give you an idea of what part sports will have in preparing the boys to become fliers . . . Since he quit baseball, Hack Wilson has shed 20 pounds.

MAN THE OARS OR GET OUT AND PUSH

EASTON, Md. —(AP)— The regatta and party-boat fishing people gave a wink this year and shrewdly began fitting out the hulls of their old sailing craft to beat the gas shortage that threatened use of their motor boats.

Now they're head-on with a dilemma; with hulls and masts fitted out they found a shortage of sailcloth. Frankly, they don't know what to do—rowing is such hard work, you know.

Hunters Given Double Break

Rabbit and Bird Dates Stretched 30 Minutes.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Ohio's hunters get a double break under new rabbit and bird hunting schedules announced today by the state conservation and natural resources commissoin.

Hunting will be permitted half an hour longer daily and sportsmen will get an extra Saturday in the field this year.

The rabbit and bird seasons—which open and close five days later than last year—get under way at noon Nov. 20. Hunting of rabbits ends Jan. 5 and ring-neck pheasants, Hungarian partridge and grouse Dec. 5. This gives hunters seven Saturdays to shoot Rabbits and three for birds, as compared with six and two last year.

Hunting hours were changed to eastern war time, with opening at 8:30 a. m. Instead of an hour earlier and closing at 6:30 p. m. instead of five, extending by half an hour the time sportsmen may remain in the field.

The tentatively adopted regulations come up for final consideration at the commission's May meeting.

Other hunting dates:

Squirrels—Sept. 22 to 30 inclusive in northern counties and Sept. 15 to 20 in all other counties.

Caccoon—7 p. m. to 7 a. m. Nov. 20 to Jan. 15. This new hunting and trapping schedule eliminates the split season which permitted hunting for two months and trapping for an overlapping 45-day period.

Red fox hunting in unrestricted areas—Nov. 20 to Feb. 1.

Other game—Mink, inland district, Nov. 20 through Jan. 15, Lake Erie district, Nov. 20 through March 15; muskrat, inland district, Nov. 20-Jan. 15 inclusive, Lake Erie district, Nov. 20 througs March 15; opossum and skunk, Nov. 20-Jan. 15, inclusive.

Geauga county was transferred from the inland to the Lake Erie district.

Bradley's Entries Probably Won't Even See Derby Post

By JACK MAHON

LEXINGTON, Ky. —(INS)— The highly regarded Calumet stable's Sun Again and Col. E. R. Bradley's Bless Me, two of the most popular choices in the winter book wagering, probably will never get to the post in the 68th annual Kentucky Derby, it was learned today as the horse-loving citizens of this beautiful racing community prepared for the 18th running of the mile and one-eighth Blue Grass stakes.

Only four were named for this, Kentucky's first real derby preview, which is the annual closing day feature at beautiful Keeneland Park. They were Bless Me, the well-regarded Greentree pair, Devil Diver and Shut Out, and Equinox, which is owned by Hal Price Headley. The Greentree pair will go t the post odds-on for this one and if Devil Diver wins it, as expected, he may wind up the favorite for the derby which is scheduled for May 2.

The entry probably will run one, two today, if our information is correct, for Devil Diver turned in a sensational 1:38 mile trial here Tuesday morning on a deep track regarded by the railbirds as anything but conducive to such sparkling time. Kentucky is sold on the idea that if it comes up mud Derby Day, you can bet your home, your salary and your wife on the Diver.

Word that Sun Again, at present co-favorite with Alsab in the winter book on the derby, probably would not start comes from none other than his trainer, Ben Jones.

Bless Me, despite what you might have heard, is suffering from a recurrence of an old injury to his left foreleg. This retarded his training all winter and has been bothering him in recent works.

If Bless Me comes out of the Blue Grass sound and runs any kind of a race, Trainer Jimmy Smith, a former Bradley rider who has been subbing for regular trainer, Bill Hurley, who is ill, says he will send the colt to Churchill Downs for the run for the roses. The feeling around the stable, however, is very pessimistic and they frankly don't have much hope.

Ben Jones, who nominated eight colds for Owner Warren Wright doesn't think Sun Again will go postward because the son of Sun Eddy-Hug Again, like all the others in his stable which was shipped from Santa Anita, has not been able to train properly.

"He's about two weeks behind, I'm afraid," said Ben. "I'll run him in the derby trial next Tuesday at Churchill Downs but unless he turns in a very fine race I don't think he'll go to the post in the derby."

Costs Dough At Preakness

Take Bulky Bankroll Racing Fans Tipped.

(By Wide World)
By MASON BRUNSON

BALTIMORE — The nation's seventh city, booming under war time conditions, is looking forward to entertaining one of its largest crowds, when Maryland's oldest, richest horse race, the Preakness Stakes, is run for the 52nd time at Pimlico May 9.

Preakness day is just about the biggest thing annually in this overcrowded, industrial metropolis. This year, from all indications, will be no exception. In fact, it bids fair to break all Preakness records.

There are enough extra people in Baltimore alone to pack Pimlico to the rafters. It has been estimated that war industries and allied endeavors have brought something like 250,000 people into this vicinity in the last year.

In consequence, Maryland Jockey club officials are expecting one of the largest crowds in Pimlico's history. And, judging from the advance ticket sale, their expectations will be fulfilled.

When Bimelich rebounded from his Kentucky Derby defeat to win the Preakness in 1940, a crowd of 55,000, largest in the history of the race, was cheering him on. And 42,000 saw Whirlaway win last year.

Fully as many are expected to turn out this year to see such three-year-olds as Alsab, Bless Me, Apache, Sun Again, Some Chance, Requested and Devil Diver fighting for the $50,000, added pot in a race that rivals the Kentucky Derby in color and importance.

War-time hasn't hurt Maryland racing. If anything, it has given it a boost. But the war has served to jack prices all along the line and to make transportation over Baltimore's narrow, crowded streets more of a problem than ever.

If you're coming from out of town, make your reservations early, leave for the track early, bring a well-fortified pocketbook and have your disposition attuned to snail-paced traffic and the jostling of thick-packed humanity.

Prices of rooms, food and drink have increased appreciably. The steak you got for $1.50 last year costs $2.00 now. And the cocktail or highball you bought for 50 cents last year now costs 75 cents.

If you go partying after the race, you'll find night clubs, restaurants and cocktail lounges more crowded than ever before, with a generous sprinkling of uniformed army and navy men from nearby posts.

* * *

It won't cost you any more than usual to get into the track. What it costs you before you get out again depends strictly upon how good (or lucky) you are at picking winners.

Floyd Urges Early Filing

May 1 Deadline Set For Softball Entries.

Managers of all softball teams interested in playing in the softball leagues during the summer are requested to get their entry blanks at the Y. M. C. A. as soon as possible, according to J. E. Floyd, newly elected president of the commission.

The deadline for fees and blanks has been set for Friday May 1. The commission will sponsor three leagues this year, namely the industrial, church and independent. The industrial league will play all of their games on Wednesday evenings and players must be employed at their respective plants to be eligible to play.

The church league will play on Monday evening and all players must attend their respective church. The independent league will be open to all independent and club league teams. There will be no eligibility rules other than a player must be signed to the roster of the team on which he plays.

* * *

Another important ruling made by the commission was the dropping of the player classification. In the past a player was limited to the team and league according to his ability to play. This year a player may play in all three leagues as long as he can fill the required eligibility rules.

The Mansfield Tire and Humphryes Manufasturing company are definitely in the industrial league. Other companies have not been heard from as yet in regards to playing in the leagues.

Violin Helps Golfing Star

Concentration Aided By Practice Habits.

MIAMI, Fla. — The concentration and nerve control that pretty Georgia Tainter learned during long hours of violin practice may bring the state of North Dakota its first national golf championship.

The 19-year-old brunette sensation of the Florida winter circuit—winner of four straight tournaments and 17 of 1 matches—started playing the violin when she was eight. She practiced constantly, learned the importance of sound fundamental technique. She performed in public and that gave her poise and the ability to concentrate before crowds.

At 14 she started playing golf at the behest of her father, an affable Fargo physician who is an ardent if not too skillful linksman. She took lessons almost every day for a year from professional Ralph Kingsrud, but didn't play alone at all.

* * *

"I think that helped a lot," she mused between rounds on the Miami Biltmore course, where she practiced for the spring campaign.

* * *

"I didn't have a chance to form many bad golf habits, as I might have done if I had been playing in those early days without a pro to watch me."

Her aim is consistency—"I'd rather shoot four 76's than a couple of 72's and two 81's."

She's had that deadly consistency all winter, with never a round below 74 and only one above 80.

Georgia doesn't care whether the play is match or medal and it doesn't bother her when her opponent is playing unusually well.

"The violin playing helped my golf in a lot of ways," she said with a smile. "But the biggest thing of all was that it taught me to concentrate on what I'm doing without worrying about something else at the same time."

Her two previous bids in the nationals were unsuccessful, but veterans followers of the winter tour will tell you that no golfer ever has dominated the circuit the way Georgia has without going on to win the big crown.

Despite her gracious, easy charm, the young lady has quite a reputation as a scrapper on the golf course. In one important match this winter, for instance, she rallied to win after being three down at the turn.

Army Camp Now Has 'Mechanized' Clothes Line

CAMP STEWART, Ga.—(INS)—First it was the old faithful horse replaced by light tanks' And more and more after that the U. S. Army became more and more mechanized. Officers agree it can't possibly go much further.

The latest innovation at Camp Stewart is a "mechanized" clothes line—not really a line on which to hang clothes, but a line of heavy machinery in the form of huge drying machines in quartermaster laundries.

The centrifugal water extractor is one of the machines used in the laundry which removes most of the moisture by whirling clothes around at a terrific speed, and after this process they may be dried completely under the press.

A hot-air blower is used for drying bath towels, woolen underwear, barrack bags and other garments which require no pressing.

Yes, even the lowly clothes line has disappeared from the army—thanks to mechanization.

PACIFIC HAS DEEPEST WATER

SCHENECTADY, N. Y. —(U.P.)— Naval battles in the western Pacific are fought in the deepest waters in the world.

Just west of Mindanao island is Mindanao Deep, the deepest underwater spot known to geologists.

Here the measuring tape went down 34,218 feet, or nearly six and one-half miles before it struck bottom, according to Dr. Edward S. C. Smith, professor of geology at Union college.

Other deep spots in this area, Dr. Smith said, are the Tonga Deep, 30,132 feet, and the Kermadec Deep, 30,920 feet. Waters in the northeastern Pacific average about 15,000 feet.

LAMPLIGHTER HAS BLACKOUT BLUES

KENMORE, N. Y. —(U.P.)— Blackouts are just a headache for Harry Torrillo, who works for the department of public works. His job is to extinguish all of Kenmore's 317 gas street lights in case of a blackout.

Kenmore missed complete electrification when depression forced the village to curtail expenses. Torillo must start turning out the lights about five hours before the familiar electric arcs are extinguished in the village. This seems bad enough, but putting the lights on again is even worse. It takes about two days.

SOUTH AMERICA FEELS PINCH OF WAR SHORTAGES

Fuel Rationed in Argentina; Eggs Cost Dollar a Dozen In Panama.

(By Wide World)

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil—The effects of the war are beginning to make themselves felt in the daily lives of South Americans, although they are not active belligerents.

Eggs sell as high as a dollar a dozen in Panama and most foods have doubled the United States price.

Fuel is rationed at the approach of winter in Argentina. An Argentine must have a priority to get a new car. He is plagued by a rubber and tire shortage. Buenos Aires' downtown brilliance is dimmed at night to save electricity. Theaters are required to close early to save fuel.

Argentine newspapers are shrinking for lack of newsprint. Argentine telephone companies have long waiting lists of subscribers because they are unable to expand facilities. Stores still are well stocked but have little prospect of replenishing many varieties of cotton and silk and many other imported wares.

Great piles of unsalable wheat and corn, whose export to Europe once formed a pillar of Argentine economy, are the visible evidence of the strain. Inflation is threatened because there is an influx of refugee funds and a dearth of commodities.

The plight of Argentina is typical. The shortage of shipping, priorities and conversion of consumer industries to war production in the United States has cut off the import of manufactured goods and the cost of living is soaring.

Many of the agricultural products which South America formerly sent to Europe and North America are now considered luxuries which the warring countries cannot afford or cannot take home. South America is being asked to produce minerals, rubber and other war materials, long left locked in her jungles and mountains.

But South America is handicapped now by shortages in getting the mining machinery, the railroads, the ships and the skilled labor needed to develop her resources.

In Uruguay living costs have soared 20 per cent since 1939. Unemployment has risen from lack of coal and materials to operate a few small industries.

Mexico formerly got sugar from Cuba, but now the whole Cuban crop is pledged to the United States. She also needs corn from the United States, materials for her new factories and materials for new roads and railroads.

Puerto Rico's jibaro (peasant), who customarily puts all his land to sugar cane, tobacco and such cash crops, may find his eating habits made over. Because of the shipping shortage food imports have been ordered cut from 326,000 tons in 1942 to 262,000 tons.

Nicaragua, imported 60 per cent of her foreign purchases from the United States before the war. Now she gets 84 per cent from that source. But priorities and shipping are threats to the supply.

In general the same story applies to Honduras, Costa Rica, Ecuador, Paraguay, Bolivia and Guatemala backed up surpluses and an effort to turn to new economic resources.

Cuba is sitting pretty with the United States an eager taker of all the sugar she can raise and ship.

One industry, cigar making, has been jolted because Britain cut off her purchases. Cuban cigar sales dropped from $37,000,000 in 1926 to $12,000,000 in 1940, but rose slightly in 1941 thanks to United States buying.

Brazil, second largest cane producer of the western hemisphere, expects to enjoy the fruits of a policy of 10 years by which the National Sugar and Alcohol Institute has directed production and alcohol refining.

MOTHER TELLS OF FLIGHT FROM PRISON CAMP WITH YOUNG CHILD

By WILLIAM J. HUMPHREYS

LONDON—(AP)—Anthony Haden Guest, who at 4½ years is the youngest prisoner of war ever known to escape from the Germans, took a few liberties with his first press conference as is undestandable in a young man who has spent months behind barbed wire and on slim rations.

"Don't forget I speak English," Anthony stated at the beginning. His mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Haden Guest, interrupted to remark that he certainly did speak English—so constantly that in escaping from the Germans she had to keep him drugged for four days and nights to prevent his language from giving them away.

Mrs. Guest said her husband, Peter, was in New York and young Anthony was in Brittany when the German invasion started May 10, 1940.

By the time she could drop her work with the British-American ambulance corps in Paris and rejoin her child in Brittany, all escape routes were cut off.

"It took us six hours to walk and crawl through the line of demarcation into unoccupied France," she said. "Tony was very good about it.

"When I told him he never would have another Christmas tree or birthday cake, that there would be nothing but German soldiers unless he kept quiet, he promised he would.

"It was quite an ordeal to get him through.

"The half of him that wasn't drugged was normally curious and was always on the point of wondering out loud about such things as dogs barking.

"The Germans have lots of dogs on the demarcation line, but a friend coated us with some smelly stuff that is supposed to throw them off the scent.

"As for the sentries, well, there was nothing to it but to be extra careful.

"Each one patrols a stretch of 50 yards to and fro and you have to move when they are definitely fro."

Mrs. Guest said she remained in Brittany until Aug. 1940, when she and the boy were taken to Dinan prison camp. Later they were transferred in bitter December weather in a cattle train to Besancon, a place of internment for dissident French .

"We women had to take off our clothes to keep the children warm on the train," she said.

Through intervention of the Red Cross, they were moved to Paris, where "Tony and I managed just to step out of line and lose ourselves in the crowd."

They stayed their several months before they started for the unoccuppied zone.

While most Americans count it an adventure to get a glimpse of a free deer, there is one to every 26 persons.

Mexico Gives Walking Lessons To Pedestrians

MEXICO CITY—(INS)—City traffic officials have inaugurated an educational program for the pedestrians, showing them the proper manner of crossing the streets.

This news has been greeted by the harried pedestrians, already gasping from dodging the automobiles and buses, with an anguished snort. The Mexican driver is no respector of persons, and the common feeling is that it would be "a far, far better thing" to institute a school for motorists. Particularly culpable are those taxi-cab drivers, who, without passengers, drive wildly around corners and through cross-walks, threatening to exterminate potential customers. Of course, always with us are those "insects" who sound their horns a fraction of a second after the traffic light has turned green, but added to these are those who blow their horns when the light is yellow. The Latin would be able to drive a car with one wheel removed better than if he were deprived of his horn.

These and many others are the complaints of the long suffering pedestrians who mutter unintelligibly at the thought of a school for pedestrians.

SAYS MALARIAL MOSQUITO MAY RISE TO PLAGUE JAPS IN MAY

(By International News Service)

LONDON—One spring offensive the Japanese may have to face in Malaya is the advance of the malarial mosquito according to Sir Malcolm Watson, director of the Ross Institute of Tropical Medicine in London.

It was Sir Malcolm's work that transformed the swampy, fever-stricken Malayan peninsula into one of the healthiest of tropical territories. At 68 he knows the county from the Siamese border to Singapore; he first went out there as a medical officer at the beginning of the century, when the death rate from malaria was 130 per thousand.

Thirty per cent of the labor forces on the plantations were dying. The scourge was so great that Sir Frank Swettenham ordered Port Swettenham to be closed, two and a half months after it had been opened. The jungle just swallowed unattended rubber trees in derelict plantations.

An elaborate system of malaria cont .l was built up. Each town, village, rubber plantation and tin mine had its own control, and it was through the collaboration of the people, both Asiatic and European, that the progress became a success.

Much of this control broke down with the Jap invasion. It consisted mainly of killing the malaria-carrying mosquito in their breeding places. Embankment and tide gates were built around mangrove swamps,, oil was poured down drains and streams and drains had to be kept free from weeds. This control reduced the death rate from malaria to six per thousand.

An army advancing as rapidly as did the Japs would have little time to carry out all this control. Sir Malcolm thinks that some of it at least would have been neglected. All of it, however was essential to keep the malaria mosquito down.

He estimates that two months of the campaign would give time for the parasite to breed. Thousands must be coming to life in neglected swamps and drains of the battlefields. The peak of the malaria period for Singapore and the south is May.

The Japs have no experience of dealing with malaria on such a vast scale.

MEAT and VEGETABLE MEDLEY

1. Sear 2 lbs. cubed raw meat in 2 Tbsps. fat till nicely browned. 2. Remove meat from fat; add 1 c chopped onions, 2 c. chopped celery, ½ c. chopped green pepper; cook till lightly browned and tender. 3. Add 3 c. canned tomatoes gradually to 3 Tbsps. Pillsbury's Best Enriched Flour, 2 tsps. salt, ¼ tsp. pepper, ¼ tsp. paprika, ½ c. corn, drained. Turn into 2½-qt. casserole, cover; cook about 30 min. in moderate oven (350° F.). TOP WITH BISCUIT TOPPING: 4. Sift and measure 2 c. Pillsbury's Best Enriched Flour. (The harder men work, the more they need B-vitamins! Pillsbury's Best contains two added B-vitamins—more essential than ever in these strenuous days for sound nerves, good appetite, the ability to stand up under hard physical activity—plus iron to help build red blood.) Add 3 tsps. baking powder (or 2 tsps. double-acting), ½ tsp. salt; sift together twice. 5. Cut in ¼ c. shortening till mixture is like coarse meal. 6. Add 1 c. milk all at once, stir only till flour is damp. Drop by spoonfuls over meat mixture (These fluffy biscuits will come toothsome and tender from the oven. Your assurance: Pillsbury's Best is bake proved! 4 to 6 times a day during milling, Pillsbury's Best is given actual baking tests to protect your baking success. With "thrift" and "saving" the watchwords of today, you can't afford baking failures. Use Bake-Proved Pillsbury's Best—for kitchen thrift and mealtime satisfaction.) Bake in hot oven (450° F.). Serve at once. Here's "fightin' food," packed with essential vitamins and minerals necessary for good health! Give your family the benefit of a hearty, savory Pillsbury Meat and Vegetable Medley for dinner tonight!

Dog Looks After 4 Orphaned Pigs

Pigs are pigs and motherly love is motherly love. So thinks Pottsy at least. Pottsy is a Newfoundland dog, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Lee W. Shafer, Mansfield R. D. 5, and she takes care of four pigs orphaned from a litter of 17 pigs by their real mother. The Shafers report that when the mother sow was unable to care for more than 12 of the litter, Pottsy took over the maternal duties, cleaning the piglets, keeping them warm and herding them about the Shafer farm. Mrs. Shafer fed the orphan pigs starting with a teaspoon until they were old enough to drink from a pan.

One of the five pigs died shortly after birth but Pottsy has looked after the other four for several weeks. In the picture, above, Pottsy is shown with her four charges.

Former Governor of Ohio Lives In A Trailer Camp

COLUMBUS—(NS)—From the pleasures and the mansions he once knew daily, "Honest Vic" Donahey, three times governor of Ohio and once a U. S. Senator, has retired to the every day modesty of a trailer camper's life

Half a mile from the heart of Columbus, capital of the nation's "fourth state," Donahey has had an ultra smart modern trailer mounted on concrete blocks 100 feet to the rear of the big stone building where he presides as head of an automobile insurance firm.

The trailer is successor to a sleek cabin cruiser which he kept on the Potomac while he was in Washington. It is replete with modern conveniences. There he serves succulent steaks, fine fresh vegetables and man-sized cuts of apple pie to guests who come to enjoy his own culinary masterpieces.

Vic Donahey, he'd have you know, is no amateur with a spatula and skillet, a broiler or an oven. He knows his vitamins as well as the palates of his guests and his geniality as a host is talked of far and wide

Carpenter Turns Out Hand Carved Shoes as Hobby

RICHMOND Va—(NS)—An 82-year-old Richmond carpenter is proud of his collection of more than 500 handcarved wooden shoes

Fred Schnelle, who still lives in the same house here in which he was born the year before Lincoln was elected president, has been turning out the ornamental shoes as a hobby since he was 17 years old

He has sold a few of them for favors and ornaments, but he makes them chiefly because of the pleasure he derives from carving things out of wood.

"It takes me four hours to make one small shoe," he explained. Red cedar, yellow poplar, walnut and hedge all make beautiful shoes because they take such splendid finishes, he pointed out.

The shoes Schnelle has made vary in size from 7/16 of an inch long to more than a foot in length.

He said he remembers that years ago several local men made and sold wooden shoes for actual service

STORK SECOND GUESSES PAPA

JAMESTOWN, N Y —(U.P.)— When a certain selective service registrant filled out his questionnaire last winter he didn't know the stork would make a liar of him.

Anyway, Selective Service board 652 received the following communication:

"Dear Sirs: When I made out my questionnaire last winter for dependents I put down my wife one child and one unborn child.

"I now have my wife and three children. The one unborn should have been two, as 'it' turned out to be twins."

ENROLLMENT OFF

COLUMBIA, Mo —(U.P.)— War has cut deeply into the enrollment at the University of Missouri. Registration for the second semester of the 1941-42 school year showed 4,466 students, 13 per cent under the first semester.

BOND FOR A HERO'S SON

HELPER, Utah—(U.P.)—The Kiwanis club has purchased a $25 defense bond for the son of Capt Colin P. Kelly, jr., who lost his life in bombing the Japanese battleship, Haruna.

Population of Venezuela Has Grown Steadily

CARACAS, Venezuela—(NS)—The population of Venezuela has increased nearly half a million, or about thirteen per cent in the past five years, according to figures just released in the preliminary count of the census.

The nation's population in 1936 was 3,361,437 including the estimated Indian population of 103,000. Thus far, according to Director of Statistics Antonio Planchart Burguillos, the population, assuming the same number of Indians, is 3,942,747, an increase of 475,400. Caracas and its immediate suburbs enjoyed an increase from 283,417 to 377,434, or 33.2 per cent. Houses have been going up here at the rate of five per day and are still unable to meet the demand.

Cutting of the death rate, especially among infants, is responsible for nearly half of the increase, Dr. Burguillos said. Immigration and the influx of foreigners who have established residence here accounts for the remainder.

FORMER LOBSTER BAIT IN DEMAND

PORTLAND, Me. —(U.P.)— Although strikes, bad weather and war-bans have choked off the usual supply of ocean fish for New Englanders, thousands of pounds of pink sea perch daily are being shipped to western and mid-western consumers.

Perhaps because it lacks a distinctive taste, natives here rarely eat perch, preferring halibut, haddock and cod. But inlanders relish the small fish and in 1941 alone one large company bought 10,000,000 pounds from local fishermen.

Before 1938 and the erection of a large fish processing plant in Portland, the sea perch, also known as rose, brim or red fish, was almost a nuisance to draggers. Then the fish was sold generally for lobster bait.

PROTEST WHEAT ASSOCIATION MEETING

AT SHELBY, APRIL 14TH, PASSED THE FOLLOWING RESOLUTION

We, the members of the Richland County Wheat Marketing Quota Protest Association, in order to protect farmers in our community and friends and ourselves from the inconveniences of unfair Government interference and the practice of the "dole" to non-producing farmers and promote the welfare of the agricultural industry in general, and to further our aims and purposes and to induce all our friends and neighbors to lend assistance and support to our cause; and to assist in eliminating any and all shortages in agricultural products in order that we may be able to properly and adequately feed and clothe our boys now in the armed forces of our nation and Allies.

Be it resolved that we, the members of this association herein assembled, do hereby protest to the unfair practices of the A. A. A. Program whose aims and objects are to curtail the production of farm products now so vitally needed to feed and clothe our nation and Allies.

Be it further resolved that we, the members of this Association, assist and cooperate with each and all of our members, our friends, and neighbors who are interested in and cooperating with us for the relief of our cause by the exchange of labor and machinery, etc., whenever and wherever possible in order that more food and fibre can be produced.

Be it further resolved that we, the members of this association, ignore, as far as within our power to do so, any and all persons now engaged in the farming industry who are members of and operating under the A. A. A. Organization Program as we believe that through their participation in the A. A. A. Program they are aiding and contributing in the creation of an additional burdensome, unjust, and unconstitutional tax upon the people of our nation and that they are accepting and receiving compensation not rightfully and honestly earned.

Be it further resolved that we, the members hereof, conscientiously believe that the money now spent upon this A. A. A. Program by our Federal Government could be more intelligently and justly spent by assisting and promoting the welfare of our nation now engaged in conflict with our enemies.

Be it further resolved that we, the members of this association, go on record as protesting to the unfair practices and methods of the Marketing Quota Elections which have been held in the past as well as all future elections for the reason that they have been unjust and unfair and without proper representation by all of the wheat producers.

Be it further resolved that we believe in the rights and privileges of a clean and unbiased form of Democratic Government and all the rights and privileges thereto as made and provided for by the Constitution of our United States of America and the Bill of Rights thereof.

FOSTER I. FACKLER,
Secretary.

2—Card of Thanks

WE WISH to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to our friends for their kindness and sympathy in our bereavement, the loss of our dearly beloved husband and father.

Mrs. J. M. Rosenbaum
and Daughter. (J-k)

WITH REGARD TO A CARD OF THANKS

Very often a Card of Thanks in The News-Journal meets a need which can hardly be solved in any other way. Not only is it a gracious expression of gratitude to those who have sent floral tributes, but also courteously acknowledges the service and kindness of the many to whom a personal note of thanks cannot well be mailed, or whose names or addresses are not known.

A "Card of Thanks" can now be arranged by telephone: Dial 4251-6, ask for Miss Lane or Miss Stone, either will be glad to render whatever service and advice you need.

STOCKS MOVE LOWER DURING DAY'S TRADE

Engineered Public Building Shows Wide Gain Over Previous Year.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Stocks moved towards lower levels in today's market dealings in sympathy with heaviness in a number of the leaders.

Down fractionally were DuPont, Chrysler, Anaconda, American Telephone and U. S. Rubber.

Current trends in construction, business analysis noted, were emphasized in the weekly report of engineering news-record which disclosed a wide gain in engineered public building over the corresponding period last year with a substantial drop in private activities.

For the latest week total construction amounted to $214,369,000 against $148,577,000 in the preceding period and $107,090,000 last year. Public work represented $198,711,000 compared with $134,803,000 the week before and $64,853,000 a year ago.

Injures Hand—Hershel Heichel, 248 South Diamond street, suffered a hand injury yesterday shortly after 10 p. m. when he caught his hand at a punch press at the Westinghouse plant. He was taken to General hospital where the end of the third finger of his left hand was amputated. Hospital authorities said that he had been sent home following treatment.

CLUB PICKS PROJECTS

Twelve members of the Needles and Pans 4-H club chose their projects for the summer at a recent meeting at the home of the advisor, Mrs. James Ricker, Millsborough road. Six members decided on sewing and six chose cooking projects. Record books were distributed to the members.

LEGAL NOTICE

MOTORING HIT ON EAST COAST

War Agencies Bolster Action To Ration Supplies of Gasoline.

beginning next month will operate for 45 days, and will be supplanted about July 1 by "a more elaborate and comprehensive coupon rationing system," OPA announced. Ration cards will be issued each motorist, on presentation of an automobile registration card, during a three-day registration period beginning May 12.

Trucks and commercial vehicles will not be affected. Special provision will be made for doctors, war workers, and other exempt classes.

The ration cards will contain seven squares, each representing an amount of gasoline the card-holder may purchase. As purchases are made, service station attendants will punch, tear off, or mark a square.

One or more of the squares—up to the entire seven—may be used up at one time, but OPA cautioned that no additional cards would be issued before the new, permanent ration plan goes into operation in July.

Thus, a person wishing to use his automobile for a vacation trip could consume his entire gasoline quota on the trip—but would have to store away his automobile afterward until new ration allowances are made. Drivers entering the rationing area from other states will be issued ration cards by local rationing boards nearest the border. Eventually, it was understood, a "no sale" belt about 50 miles wide will be established around the ration area to prevent restricted motorists from crossing into other states to buy gasoline.

cles were interested in the correspondent's views.

The German view was said to be that the Norwegian and French coastlines are "100 per cent equipped to meet all eventualities and, "while it is true that the weight of German effectives have been moved eastward, quite a sufficient number remain."

One Berlin military commentator was quoted by Dagens Nyheter as saying the recent 'pinpricks' (commando raids) show the French coast is the main interest of the British."

To which London observers commented: "It seems to show that the Germans are undecided and that they are keeping an open mind on the subject. Well, that's the frame of mind we want to keep them in."
